

Continue Arctic Hunt For Lost H-Bombs

WASHINGTON (AP) —Searchers continue hunting in the icy polar darkness seven miles off Thule, Greenland, for perhaps as many as four U. S. hydrogen bombs lost in the fiery crash of a B52 bomber.

The Pentagon would not say Monday how many nuclear bombs were aboard the plane when it crashed Sunday. But sources said it was probably four of the 1.1 megaton type, with a total explosive equivalent of more than 4.4 millions tons of dynamite — a force thousands of times greater than that which incinerated Hiroshima in World War II.

The Pentagon said the devices were not armed "so there is no danger of a nuclear explosion at the crash site." In its brief statement the Defense Department did not speculate on chances of recovering the bombs but other sources said recovery was doubtful.

Denmark, which owns Greenland, asked the United States for an explanation of the incident.

Denmark forbids flights of planes bearing nuclear bombs over her territory. But Prime Minister Jens Otto Krag said it was impossible to prevent emergency landings such as the plane was attempting when it hurtled into the thick ice of North Star Bay.

In Copenhagen, Danes staged a protest demonstration at the U. S. Embassy.

The Soviet news agency Tass said in Moscow the crash was a "dangerous accident."

One crewman was killed in the crash. Six others parachuted to safety.

Searchers worked with light provided by flares in temperatures well below zero and headed across the ice six to nine feet thick in the bay, where some wreckage had been sighted.

But the Pentagon said other parts of the plane, heated in the fire of the crash, "may have burned into or through the ice" and disappeared in the 800-foot water depth to the sea floor.

The $10 million plane, based at the Plattsburgh N. Y. Air Force Base 2,000 miles away, was on patrol duty that is part of the continuing U. S. bomber flights along the northern route in readiness for possible war.

The crash site is in northwest Greenland, a desolate area which has no sunlight most of the day. It is home for three or four hundred Eskimos who live by hunting polar bears and walrus. There are a hospital and some other facilities at Thule manned by Danes.

Wilson, Russian Leaders Confer

MOSCOW (AP) — British Prime Minister Harold Wilson met with the Soviet Union's top leader today for three hours—one hour longer than scheduled—and British spokesman said the talks were constructive.

Wilson and Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Soviet Communist party general secretary, were said to have discussed world problems, but neither Soviet nor British spokesmen would say which ones.

An official Soviet announcement said: "There was a frank exchange of opinion on some topical international problems and also on questions pertaining to relations between the U.S.S.R. and Britain."

The Soviets usually use the term "frank" to indicate disagreement.

It was assumed Wilson tried again to get the Soviet Union to agree to reconvening the Geneva Conference on Indochina to seek peace in Vietnam. The British and Russians are co-chairmen of the conference.

After the meeting Premier Alexei N. Kosygin gave a luncheon for Wilson. Brezhnev attended the luncheon, as did Mikhail A. Suslov, the powerful but shadowy Soviet figure and Politburo member who oversees foreign policy and ideology.

Wilson conferred for 4½ hours with Kosygin Monday, and he was expected to see President Nikolai V. Podgorny Wednesday, Wilson's last day here.

There was only silence from the U.S. Embassy and Soviet officials about the contents of a note from President Johnson to Kosygin delivered shortly before Wilson's arrival. British sources, however, said the note was shown to Wilson and that it dealt with "a world problem."

Asked if the message concerned the crash of a B52 bomber with H-bombs aboard into a Greenland Bay, the sources said it did not.

Indict Hodges In Wounding

NAPOLEON, Ohio (AP)—An Allen County man was indicted Monday in the shooting of a Napoleon high school girl, who was wounded as she rode her motorcycle near here.

Mark D. Hodges, 26, Beaverdam, was indicted by the Henry County Grand Jury on a charge of shooting with intent to kill 18-year-old Denise Fortner. Miss Fortner suffered only superficial wounds in the incident last August.

Hodges, a former service station attendant, also is charged in Wood County with first-degree murder in the shooting death of Karen Kern of Sylvania, 20-year-old niece of State Sen. Frank King.

Hodges remained in jail here in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Solons Push Remap OK as Deadline Nears

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Chairman Charles E. Fry R-9 Clark says his House Government Operations Committee is expected to recommend a Congressional redistricting bill to night for floor action Thursday.

The committee received a Democratic-sponsored proposal to revise Ohio's 24 congressional districts in a considerably different manner than contained in the administration bill which passed the Senate last week.

The Senate-approved measure was expected to go to a subcommittee after two Republicans proposed changes for it.

Fry said a subcommittee composed of himself and Reps. Walter L. White R-6 Allen and James M. Holzemer D-78 Toledo would work over the bill for final consideration by the full committee of 19 members.

Two proposed amendments were offered Monday afternoon and night by members of each party and the Republican delegation from Cincinnati was set to ask major changes today.

But with the redistricting court deadline four days away, observers saw little chance of major revisions. The plan has to be filed in U.S. District Court at Cleveland by late Friday or the court itself may draw new districts for elections this year in the state's 24 congressional districts.

Rep. Carlton Davidson R-26 Lawrence asked the House Government Operations Committee Monday for a revision that would keep his county in the 10th District "where it has been for more than 100 years." Under the Senate bill, it would go into the 6th.

He proposed instead that Vinson and Hocking counties be added to the 6th along with three western townships of Athens County (Trimble, York, and Dover).

Rep. James Holzemer D-78 Toledo asked a revision which would keep the Toledo metropolitan area—a Democratic stronghold—intact instead of having it divided by a proposed 5th-9th district border that generally would follow the Maumee River.

Rep. Gordon Scherer R-71 Cincinnati and others said they were ready to take up in the lower chamber the battle lost last week in the Senate by Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff R-8 Cincinnati.

Principal among their objections is a switch proposed in the Senate bill that would place a corner of southeastern Hamilton County, a heavy Republican area, into Republican Rep. William H. Harsha's sprawling 6th District in Southern Ohio.

Redistricting held the spotlight as the lawmakers began the second week of their recess session but leaders said groundwork for major issues that will follow the dilemma.

The Senate Finance Committee called for more testimony today on the administration's $850 million bond issue package. Across the statehouse, the lower chamber scheduled a floor vote on a measure authorizing limited use of industrial commission trust funds as seed money for financing state office building construction.

Senators held only a brief skeleton session Monday night for minor housekeeping chores but the House met for 55 minutes and passed four bills.

Two were Senate measures setting a four-month after death limit on state filing of claims for unpaid support of deceased mental patients and allowing township trustees to charge fees for filing of zoning applications.

Passed by the House and sent to the Senate were bills permitting municipalities to issue revenue bonds to match federal urban redevelopment grants and creating a centralized unit to handle administrative functions of the various state professional boards.

Tax Increase To Be Later If Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Massachusetts Democrat on the House Ways and Means Committee says President Johnson will get his proposed tax hike at least two months late if he gets it at all.

And, Rep. James A. Burke told administration witnesses Monday, "You'd better put in a few sweeteners to have any chance at all."

Burke gave a frankly political analysis of the outlook to Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler, Budget Director Charles L. Schultze and other spokesmen for the proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

He said an increase next year would come on top of a hike in the Social Security tax, already in effect, and "when you cut a man's pay twice in one year-look out."

"One of your problems," Burke went on, "is that many of us members face primaries before June 1. I tell you, I don't see much chance of passage before then." Johnson is seeking an April 1 effective date.

Burke suggested the administration consider broadening exemptions from the tax boost in the lower income brackets.

Burke was the only Democrat at the opening day of the committee's sessions to predict trouble for the bill. But several Republicans were critical, contending the administration was not economizing enough to insure that a tax increase would really cut the deficit.

Two Senior Citizen Awards Made

Tom Elsea Is Named 1968 'Outstanding Young Man'

Tom Elsea, 32, of 1371 N. Court St., was named the community's Outstanding Young Man of 1968 Monday night.

The recognition was conferred during the Jaycees' Distinguished Service Awards Banquet at the Flargrounds 4-H and Grange Building.

Two Senior Citizens were named at the ceremonies. They were Dr. Vernon Kerns, 63, of 143 E. Main St., and Paul A. Johnson, 74, 584 Woodland Drive.

Dr. Richard Mall from Ohio State University, known to local television viewers as the judge on Traffic Court, was the guest speaker. He directed his comments to the "Challenge of the Future."

APPROXIMATELY 150 area businessmen and professional people were on hand to bestow a standing ovation on Tom Elsea as he accepted the Outstanding Young Man Award.

State Senator Harry Armstrong made special arrangements to leave Columbus so that he could be present for the award presentation to Elsea.

Other receiving awards at the banquet were Edward Taylor, New Holland, as the Outstanding Young Farmer and W. Victor Pontious, Route 1, the Outstanding Young Educator.

Elsea was chosen Outstanding Young Man by a committee of community leaders on the basis of his leadership ability, personal or business progress and contributions to community welfare.

The award was presented by Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, last year's outstanding young man.

As evidence of leadership ability Elsea has served as liaison man for Senator Armstrong, Sunday school teacher at the First Methodist Church, co-chairman of the Republican Finance Committee for Pickaway County, president of the Circleville Jaycees, commander of Scioto Commandery 35 of the Knights Templars and senior warden of Pickaway Lodge 23 of

U.S. Recognizes Regime in Greece

ATHENS (AP) — The United States resumed normal diplomatic contacts with Greece today, indicating it had formally recognized the ruling military junta.

U.S. Ambassador Philip Talbot called on Foreign Minister Panayiotis Pipinelis at noon. Asked by newsmen if this constituted recognition of the Greek regime by the American government, Talbot replied: "This is really the resumption of normal diplomatic contacts."

The United States was the second of Greece's allies in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to extend recognition to the military dictatorship despite King Constantine's continued absence in self-imposed exile in Rome.

Turkey, another NATO member, extended its recognition Saturday.

After the military coup last April, the U.S. government took the position that its maintenance of diplomatic relations with Greece did not constitute implied approval of the coup since its ambassador was accredited to the chief of state—King Constantine—and not to the government in power.

After the failure of the king's attempt to oust the junta in mid-December and his flight to Rome, the junta named Lt. Gen. Yeorios Zoiakis regent for the king. This put the U.S. position in doubt.

Famed Duke Kahanamoku Dies at 77

HONOLULU (AP) — Duke Kahanamoku, Olympic swimming champion, sheriff, movie actor and to many the symbol of Hawaii, is dead at 77.

Sports writers dubbed him "the Bronze Duke of Waikiki" for his prowess as a sprint swimmer in Olympic Games from 1912 to 1928.

"I started swimming before I can remember," Duke said once.

He retained his powerful physique—6-foot-1, 200 pounds and with long, iron-gray hair, cut an impressive figure in later years as Honolulu's greeter.

Duke collapsed at the Waikiki Yacht Club Monday and died in Kaiser Hospital an hour later. Doctors blamed heart disease.

A close friend said Kahanamoku would receive the beach-boy funeral he wanted: At sea off Waikiki, beyond the reef.

Duke swam and rode the surfboard on Waikiki's waves until recent years when he was asked to taper off because of a heart condition. Since then, he had taken to sailing.

He won the Olympic swimming crown in 1912 and 1920 and was a top contender in the sprints in the 1924 and 1928 games.

GOP To Reply To LBJ Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican congressional leaders will participate in an hour-long television broadcast tonight in reply to President Johnson's State of the Union speech.

But Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen had to bow out because of a flu attack. He is expected to be in Walter Reed Army Hospital for most of this week.

CBS radio and television will carry the program live on television and radio at 10 p.m.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford, joined by eight other House Republicans and eight GOP senators, will participate. Sen. George Murphy of California is directing the show.

Principal Seeks Funds for Guards

NEW YORK (AP) — School Supt. Bernard E. Donovan, reacting to the beating of a principal and two teachers at a Brooklyn junior high school last Friday, has asked for $1.25 million to provide a security guard at each of the city's 906 public schools.

In his letter Monday to the Board of Education, Donovan said: "We will not have disorder in our schools and we will not permit our children or staff to be subjected to the acts of intruders."

Raid Made On High Seas By Boarders

SEOUL (AP) — The United States reported today a U.S. patrol boat with 83 men aboard was seized by North Koreans in international waters and in Seoul, South Korean troops killed a sixth member of a North Korean assassination team.

A North Korean broadcast charged the vessel was a "spy boat" violating North Korean waters.

The American announcement said the Pueblo, a Navy intelligence auxiliary ship, was boarded by an armed party about 25 miles off the North Korean coast today and taken to Wonsan.

The U.S. announcement said a North Korean patrol boat approached the Pueblo and asked identification. The Pueblo signaled that it was a U.S. boat in international waters and the North Koreans signaled: "Heave to or I will open fire on you."

About an hour later, the announcement said, three more patrol boats arrived, surrounded the Pueblo and North Koreans boarded the American vessel. The Pueblo reported she was requested to follow the North Korean ships into Wonsan and that she had not used any weapons, the announcement said.

The final message from the Pueblo reported it was "going off the air."

Viet Reds Pull Back In Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — A North Vietnamese division sent from Dien Bien Phu for the conquest of Nam Bac has returned home, Premier Souvanna Phouma said today.

Prince Souvanna said intelligence agents had reported the 316th North Vietnamese Division had recrossed the frontier at Nam Ou, near Dien Bien Phu.

He said he did not share fears voiced by Laotian Army officers that Lunag Prabang, the royal capital, was the next Communist target following capture of Nam Bac, 60 miles north of Luang Prabang, was the last major government outpost north of the royal capital.

Western sources also said that the Communists had given clear signs through third parties that they did not plan a drive on Luang Prabang because that might bring all-out war and U.S. intervention.

Jerry Lewis A Grandfather

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — Comedian Jerry Lewis and his wife, Patti, became grandparents for the first time Monday.

A girl was born in Monterey Peninsula Hospital to their son, Gary, and his wife, Sara, former Philippines beauty queen.

Jerry and Patti, the parents of six sons, were elated that their first grandchild was a girl. Asked how it felt to be a grandfather, the 41-year-old comedian replied, "Powerful. It's marvelous."

Son Gary was a rock 'n' roll singer before being drafted into the Army about a year ago. He was at the hospital when his child was born.

Kittikachorn Admits U.S. Bases Active

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn broke a badly kept secret and officially revealed for the first time today that U.S. planes are bombing Laos from bases in Thailand.

Until Thanom spoke in reply to a question at his weekly press conference, the Thai government had maintained silence on the activities of U.S. aircraft over Laos.

The United States has been equally discreet. It has maintained that Thai-based U.S. aircraft fly over Laos only on armed reconnaissance missions. A U.S. Embassy spokesman in Bangkok said this was still the American official position.

Navy Plan To Junk F111 Raises Cry

WASHINGTON (AP)—Following a new call in Congress for junking of the Navy's version of the controversial TFX jet fighter, the plane's manufacturer predicts it will prove to be "a superior weapons system."

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., urged Monday in a Senate speech an end to federal financing of the F111B, Navy version of the TFX.

"I cannot believe that Congress will appropriate and continue to spend money out of the federal Treasury to accommodate the whim of those who are blind and cannot see, or, seeing, would obstinately persist in wasting the taxpayers' dollar on an airplane that is a flop," said McClellan.

His statement came just a few hours after the Navy disclosed it is studying proposals submitted by four companies for a plane to replace the F111B.

The statement by McClellan, who long has opposed Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's decision to provide the supersonic, swing-wing TFX for both Air Force and Navy use, drew a quick response from General Dynamics, the manufacturer.

In Fort Worth, Tex., company president Frank W. Davis called it "incongruous to cancel the F111B before it has a chance to prove its worth to the Navy."

Hold Woman For Murder Of Her Son

CORDELE, Ga. (AP)—Mrs. Janie Lou Gibbs, a housewife whose husband, three sons and grandson have died within two years, was indicted Monday for murder in the death of one of her sons.

Mrs. Gibbs, who has been in Crisp County Jail since Dec. 23, will be arraigned next Monday at which time a trial date will be set.

Monday's indictment charged her in the death of Roger Gibbs, 19, who died in October of last year. His infant son died three weeks before.

Mrs. Gibbs' husband, Charles Clayton Gibbs, 40, died Jan. 21, 1966. A son, Melvin W. Gibbs, 16, died Jan. 23, 1967 and another son, Marvin R. Gibbs, 13, died Aug. 23, 1967.

An investigation was ordered after a physician became suspicious of the symptoms of Roger Gibbs' illness.

The state crime laboratory determined the presence of arsenic in the body of young Gibbs, a Georgia Bureau of Investigation report said.

Solons Push Remap OK as Deadline Nears

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Chairman Charles E. Fry R-9 Clark says his House Government Operations Committee is expected to recommend a Congressional redistricting bill to night for floor action Thursday.

The committee received a Democratic-sponsored proposal to revise Ohio's 24 congressional districts in a considerably different manner than contained in the administration bill which passed the Senate last week.

The Senate-approved measure was expected to go to a subcommittee after two Republican proposed changes for it. Fry said a subcommittee composed of himself and Reps. Walter L. White R-6 Allen and James M. Holzheimer D-7 Toledo would work over the bill for final consideration by the full committee of 19 members.

Two proposed amendments were offered Monday afternoon and night by members of each party and the Republican delegation from Cincinnati was set to ask major changes today.

But with the redistricting court deadline four days away, observers saw little chance of major revisions. The plan has to be filed in U.S. District Court at Cleveland by late Friday or the court itself may draw new districts for elections this year in the state's 24 congressional districts.

Rep. Carlton Davidson R-26 Lawrence asked the House Government Operations Committee Monday for a revision that would keep his county in the 10th District "where it has been for more than 100 years." Under the Senate bill, it would go into the 6th.

He proposed instead that Vinton and Hocking counties be added to the 6th along with three western townships of Athens County (Trimble, York, and Dover).

Rep. James Holzheimer D-7 Toledo asked a revision which would keep the Toledo metropolitan area—a Democratic stronghold—intact instead of having it divided by a proposed 5th-9th district border that generally would follow the Maumee River.

Rep. Gordon Scherer R-71 Cincinnati and others said they were ready to take up in the lower chamber the battle lost last week in the Senate by Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff R-8 Cincinnati.

Principal among their objections is a switch proposed in the Senate bill that would place a corner of southeastern Hamilton County, a heavy Republican area, into Republican Rep. William H. Harsha's sprawling 6th District in Southern Ohio.

Redistricting held the spotlight as the lawmakers began the second week of their recess session but leaders said groundwork for major issues that will follow the dilemma.

The Senate Finance Committee called for more testimony today on the administration's $850 million bond issue package. Across the statehouse, the lower chamber scheduled a floor vote on a measure authorizing limited use of industrial commission trust funds as seed money for financing state office building construction.

Senators held only a brief skeleton session Monday night for minor housekeeping chores but the House met for 55 minutes and passed four bills.

Two were Senate measures setting a four-month after death limit on state filing of claims for unpaid support of deceased mental patients and allowing township trustees to charge fees for filing of zoning applications.

Passed by the House and sent to the Senate were bills permitting municipalities to issue revenue bonds to match federal urban redevelopment grants and creating a centralized unit to handle administrative functions of the various state professional boards.

Judge Ammer To Appear on TV Program

Pickaway Common Pleas Judge William Ammer has accepted an invitation to appear on the television program "Columbus Town Meeting," to discuss gun control legislation.

Judge Ammer noted today that such legislation will be introduced into the Ohio Legislature during the current session.

The question posed by the program is "Will stronger gun controls deter crime?" Judge Ammer does not believe firearm legislation will serve as a control of crime.

"Almost anything can be made a deadly weapon," Judge Ammer noted today. He does not see how legislation can prevent weapons from falling into the hands of criminals.

The program is aired Sunday 12:30 to 1:30 p.m.

The judges considered his membership in eight Masonic organizations, winning of the Ross County Safety Council's Good Samaritan Award by saving the lives of two men without regard to his own safety and his 300 hours of voluntary service as a deputy sheriff to be adequate evidence of his contributions to the community welfare.

ELSEA, who attended both Ohio State and Ohio University, has shown progress in his business life by becoming vice president of Elsea Products, general sales manager of Circleville Mobile Homes, director of Central Ohio Mobile Homes, winner of the outstanding salesman award for a five state area and being elected to the Circleville School Board.

PAUL JOHNSON

There was considerable applause when Mayor Richard Gerhardt announced that Dr. Kerns and Paul Johnson were the winners of this year's Outstanding Senior Citizens Award. Dr. Kerns came to Circleville in 1935 after completing his studies at the University of Louisville and finishing his internship at Mt. Carmel Hospital.

DR. V. D. KERNS

Kerns has been active in the development of Berger Hospital and was president of the hospital medical staff.

He has been president of the Pickaway County Medical Society, and president of the Cancer Drive. He has been associated with the blood bank and chairman of the diabetes drive.

Kerns has been commander of the Ohio National Guard Medical Division and is presently a member of the American Academy of General Practice.

HE has an outstanding record of attending all current post-graduate courses for the family physician and electrocardiographers.

He is married and the father of two children, Harold, a major in the Air Force; and Donna, a nurse.

Paul A. Johnson came to Circleville in 1916 to purchase the Democrat and Watchman newspaper which he published until 1927 when it was merged to form today's Herald.

Johnson is a charter member of the Circleville Rotary Club and Pickaway County Country Club. He was one of the earliest members of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars posts.

Johnson has always had a trust and faith in local business. During his many years in the area he has developed several housing subdivisions.

Currently restoration of the Pickaway County Historical Museum is one of his major interests.

IN 1926 he married Irene Orr of Kingston. They have three children and nine grandchildren.

The awards banquet was under the direction of Nelson Embrey, G. Edwin Johnson was the master of ceremonies.

The Rev. Foster Jenne, president of the County Ministerial Association, delivered the invocation and benediction.

Bill Richards, 1967 National Outstanding Young Farmer presented the farmer's award. The award to the outstanding young educator was presented by Logan Elm teacher John Fox.

Pickaway Grange and Hill Implement Company helped to sponsor the farmer's award.

Stock List Still Down

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued to backtrack early this afternoon. It was the second of a series of shortened sessions.

Trading was heavy. The ticker tape lagged in the morning.

The ratio of losers to gainers widened to more than 2 to 1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 3.99 at 867.72.

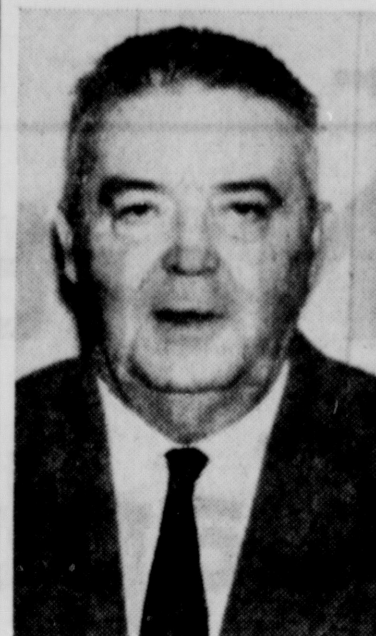

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down .9 at 315.9 with industrials off 1.7, rails off .5 and utilities unchanged.

News that IBM had proposed a 100 per cent stock dividend—equivalent to a 2-for-1 split—accompanied a rise which saw the giant computer stock up 6 points before trading was halted temporarily.

Prices slid some more on the American Stock Exchange where pressure continued on various low-priced issues.

Service Dept. Head Named

EARL RADCLIFF

Earl Radcliff, 112 Rosewood Ave., was appointed today as City Service Director by Mayor Richard L. Gerhardt.

Radcliff, prior to his retirement from government service in 1966, was employed at Lockbourne Air Force Base for 25 years.

At Lockbourne, Radcliff had the responsibility for maintaining and repairing over 27 million square feet of airfield pavement. He also served as technical inspector on work performed by private contractors which generally amounted to almost $1 million annually. He began his career with the Ohio State Highway Department.

Radcliff, who will replace W. H. Arledge, resides with his wife, Lavina.

ARLEDGE will remain in the Service Department as chief foreman, according to Gerhardt's announcement.

The position of Safety Director is yet to be filled.

Chester Bridge Ordered Closed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Immediate closing of the Chester Bridge over the Ohio River between East Liverpool and Chester, W. Va., to trucks and buses was ordered today by State Highway Director P. E. Masheter.

His action came after engineers inspecting the bridge reported that a set of cables anchored into the Ohio side of the bridge were corroded.

The department began an intensified inspection of its Ohio River bridges after the Silver Bridge between Pt. Pleasant, W. Va., and Kanawha, Ohio, collapsed Dec. 15, killing an estimated 46 persons.

The Chester bridge will be closed to all truck and passenger bus traffic which will be routed over marked detours.

Saxbe Rules Out Wallace Bid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe ruled today that a third party could not qualify independent candidates in Ohio for national presidential nominating conventions.

The opinion went to Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, Ohio's chief election official.

Brown requested the opinion following reports that former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace would seek to qualify his American Independent party in Ohio.

Saxbe said that a political party formed in Ohio "must have a state convention to nominate its presidential electors and a national convention to nominate its presidential candidate in order for its candidate to have a place on the presidential ballot."

South Vietnamese Troops Pull Out of 2nd Village

SAIGON (AP)—South Vietnamese troops and civilians pulled out of a second district town in the enflamed Khe Sanh Valley Monday as the U.S. Command rushed thousands of reinforcements to South Vietnam's threatened northern sector.

More than 3,000 helicopter-borne infantrymen from the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division were moved up the line, available as backup troops should they be needed anywhere along the front. A battalion of U.S. Marines was rushed to the Khe Sanh combat base to bolster three other battalions there.

South Vietnamese military

headquarters said about 200 militiamen, accompanied by an unknown number of civilians, had been withdrawn from the district town of Huong Hoa, nearly two miles southeast of the town of Khe Sanh.

Government forces abandoned Huong Hoa after three days of men and 2 civilians aboard the Pueblo.

In Seoul, meanwhile, South Korean troops tried to round up members of a North Korean team that entered Seoul in an attempt to kill South Korean officials.

A sixth member of the team was shot dead today and a South Korean soldier was killed Monday night in two of several shooting encounters as the Communists tried to elude pursuers.

The army said the Communist infiltrator was found fleeing north along a mountain ridge 10 miles northwest of Seoul and was shot by South Korean soldiers. A submachine gun was found near his body.

The joint anti-subversion operations headquarters announced that a North Korean agent surrendered to authorities of the U.S. 2nd Division Monday night, but the U.S. Army would neither confirm nor deny the report. It was not known whether the man belonged to the terror group that raided Seoul Sunday night.

South Korean units captured another North Korean earlier who said the raid's purpose was to kill President Chung Hee Park and other high officials.

The government announced that the 7 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew already in effect for three counties and one city north of Seoul was extended to three other counties northeast of Seoul this evening. The curfew is designed to help government units spot members of the assassination team trying to flee under cover of darkness.

The 31-man team slipped into Seoul Sunday night and shot it out with South Korean police near Park's residence. They killed one police officer and five civilians, and a sixth civilian wounded in the shooting died Monday. Five of the North Korean infiltrators were also killed.

Court Ruling Is Reversed

The Fourth District Court of Appeals has reversed a ruling by Pickaway County Common Pleas Judge William Ammer in which Russell Jones, Kingston, was found in contempt of court.

The contempt ruling resulted from a divorce case by the Jones' children. When Jones did not comply with the visitation ruling of the court, he was found in contempt.

The appellate court held that the local court had no right to grant visitation rights to an aunt and therefore the contempt ruling was not proper.

Judge Weds Couples

Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb performed marriage ceremonies Friday and Monday. Dennis Harvey, Lockbourne, was married to Mrs. James Avery, Lockbourne, on Friday.

Peter Phalen, Columbus, was married to Mrs. Anna Booth, Columbus, Monday.

Communist attack in which the militiamen claimed 250 enemy troops were killed at a cost of 18 Vietnamese dead and 53 wounded.

Three Combined Action Platoons of U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese militiamen similarly abandoned the town of Khe Sanh Monday, withdrawing to the Marine combat base three miles north of the town. They were followed by 1,112 of the town's 10,000 civilians, and these refugees were shuttled on to Da Nang.

Both Khe Sanh and Huong Hoa had been considered technically secure under the government's pacification program, but their semi-isolated position and their proximity to the northern frontier placed them in the "C" category on the U.S. Mission's A-to-E scale of rating how secure an area is. A, B or C hamlets are considered secure, D and E contested.

Accepted and Free Masons.

The judges considered his membership in eight Masonic organizations, winning of the Ross County Safety Council's Good Samaritan Award by saving the lives of two men without regard to his own safety and his 300 hours of voluntary service as a deputy sheriff to be adequate evidence of his contributions to the community welfare.

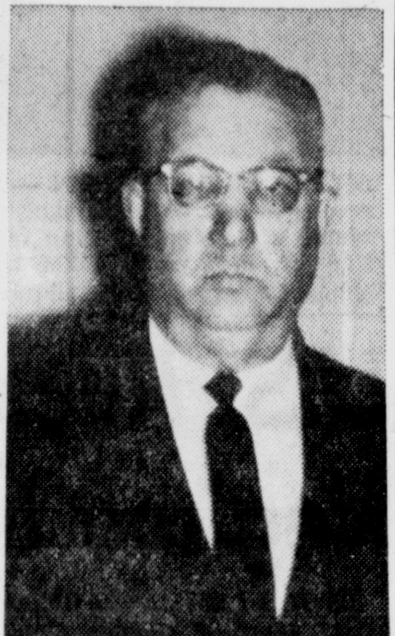

ELSEA, who attended both Ohio State and Ohio University, has shown progress in his business life by becoming vice president of Elsea Products, general sales manager of Circleville Mobile Homes, director of Central Ohio Mobile Homes, winner of the outstanding salesman award for a five state area and being elected to the Circleville School Board.

PAUL JOHNSON

There was considerable applause when Mayor Richard Gerhardt announced that Dr. Kerns and Paul Johnson were the winners of this year's Outstanding Senior Citizens Award.

Dr. Kerns came to Circleville in 1935 after completing his studies at the University of Louisville and finishing his internship at Mt. Carmel Hospital.

DR. V. D. KERNS

Kerns has been active in the development of Berger Hospital and was president of the hospital medical staff.

He has been president of the Pickaway County Medical Society, and president of the Cancer Drive. He has been associated with the blood bank and chairman of the diabetes drive.

Kerns has been commander of the Ohio National Guard Medical Division and is presently a member of the American Academy of General Practice.

HE has an outstanding record of attending all current post-graduate courses for the family physician and electrocardiographers.

He is married and the father of two children, Harold, a major in the Air Force; and Donna, a nurse.

Paul A. Johnson came to Circleville in 1916 to purchase the Democrat and Watchman newspaper which he published until 1927 when it was merged to form today's Herald.

Johnson is a charter member of the Circleville Rotary Club and Pickaway County Country Club. He was one of the earliest members of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars posts.

Johnson has always had a trust and faith in local business. During his many years in the area he has developed several housing subdivisions.

Currently restoration of the Pickaway County Historical Museum is one of his major interests.

IN 1926 he married Irene Orr of Kingston. They have three children and nine grandchildren.

The awards banquet was under the direction of Nelson Embrey, G. Edwin Johnson was the master of ceremonies.

The Rev. Foster Jenne, president of the County Ministerial Association, delivered the invocation and benediction.

Bill Richards, 1967 National Outstanding Young Farmer presented the farmer's award. The award to the outstanding young educator was presented by Logan Elm teacher John Fox.

Pickaway Grange and Hill Implement Company helped to sponsor the farmer's award.

Stock List Still Down

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued to backtrack early this afternoon. It was the second of a series of shortened sessions.

Trading was heavy. The ticker tape lagged in the morning.

The ratio of losers to gainers widened to more than 2 to 1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 3.99 at 867.72.

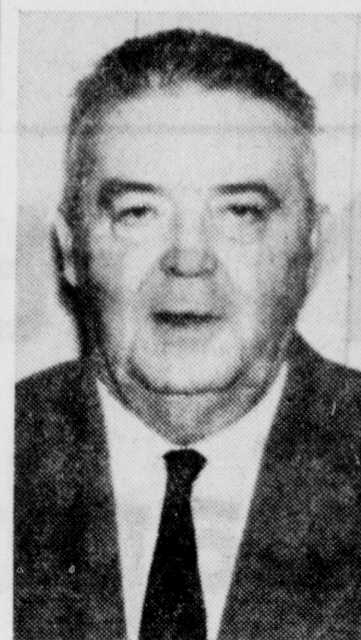

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 9 at 315.9 with industrials off 1.7, rails off .5 and utilities unchanged.

News that IBM had proposed a 100 per cent stock dividend—equivalent to a 2-for-1 split—accompanied a rise which saw the giant computer stock up 6 points before trading was halted temporarily.

Prices slid some more on the American Stock Exchange where pressure continued on various low-priced issues.

Service Dept. Head Named

EARL RADCLIFF

Earl Radcliff, 112 Rosewood Ave., was appointed today as City Service Director by Mayor Richard L. Gerhardt.

Radcliff, prior to his retirement from government service in 1966, was employed at Lockbourne Air Force Base for 25 years.

At Lockbourne, Radcliff had the responsibility for maintaining and repairing over 27 million square feet of airfield pavement. He also served as technical inspector on work performed by private contractors which generally amounted to almost $1 million annually. He began his career with the Ohio State Highway Department.

Radcliff, who will replace W. H. Arledge, resides with his wife, Lavina.

ARLEDGE will remain in the Service Department as chief foreman, according to Gerhardt's announcement.

The position of Safety Director is yet to be filled.

Chester Bridge Ordered Closed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Immediate closing of the Chester Bridge over the Ohio River between East Liverpool and Chester, W. Va., to trucks and buses was ordered today by State Highway Director P. E. Masheter.

His action came after engineers inspecting the bridge reported that a set of cables anchored into the Ohio side of the bridge were corroded.

The department began an intensified inspection of its Ohio River bridges after the Silver Bridge between Pt. Pleasant, W. Va., and Kanawha, Ohio, collapsed Dec. 15, killing an estimated 46 persons.

The Chester bridge will be closed to all truck and passenger bus traffic which will be routed over marked detours.

Saxbe Rules Out Wallace Bid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe ruled today that a third party could not qualify independent candidates in Ohio for national presidential nominating conventions.

The opinion went to Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, Ohio's chief election official.

Brown requested the opinion following reports that former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace would seek to qualify his American Independent party in Ohio.

Saxbe said that a political party formed in Ohio "must have a state convention to nominate its presidential electors and a national convention to nominate its presidential candidate in order for its candidate to have a place on the presidential ballot."

South Vietnamese Troops Pull Out of 2nd Village

SAIGON (AP)—South Vietnamese troops and civilians pulled out of a second district town in the enflamed Khe Sanh Valley Monday as the U.S. Command rushed thousands of reinforcements to South Vietnam's threatened northern sector.

More than 3,000 helicopter-borne infantrymen from the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division were moved up the line, available as backup troops should they be needed anywhere along the front. A battalion of U.S. Marines was rushed to the Khe Sanh combat base to bolster three other battalions there.

South Vietnamese military

headquarters said about 200 militiamen, accompanied by an unknown number of civilians, had been withdrawn from the district town of Huong Hoa, nearly two miles southeast of the town of Khe Sanh.

Government forces abandoned Huong Hoa after three days of Communist attack in which the militiamen claimed 250 enemy troops were killed at a cost of 18 Vietnamese dead and 53 wounded.

Three Combined Action Platoons of U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese militiamen similarly abandoned the town of Khe Sanh Monday, withdrawing to the Marine combat base three miles north of the town. They were followed by 1,112 of the town's 10,000 civilians, and these refugees were shuttled on to Da Nang.

Both Khe Sanh and Huong Hoa had been considered technically secure under the government's pacification program, but their semi-isolated position and their proximity to the northern frontier placed them in the "C" category on the U.S. Mission's A-to-E scale of rating how secure an area is. A, B or C hamlets are considered secure, D and E contested.

Raid Made

men and 2 civilians aboard the Pueblo.

In Seoul, meanwhile, South Korean troops tried to round up members of a North Korean team that entered Seoul in an attempt to kill South Korean officials.

A sixth member of the team was shot dead today and a South Korean soldier was killed Monday night in two of several shooting encounters as the Communists tried to elude pursuers.

The army said the Communist infiltrator was found fleeing north along a mountain ridge 10 miles northwest of Seoul and was shot by South Korean soldiers. A submachine gun was found near his body.

The joint antespionage operations headquarters announced that a North Korean agent surrendered to authorities of the U.S. 2nd Division Monday night, but the U.S. Army would neither confirm nor deny the report. It was not known whether the man belonged to the terror group that raided Seoul Sunday night.

South Korean units captured another North Korean earlier who said the raid's purpose was to kill President Chung Hee Park and other high officials.

The government announced that the 7 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew already in effect for three counties and one city north of Seoul was extended to three other counties northeast of Seoul this evening. The curfew is designed to help government units spot members of the assassination team trying to flee under cover of darkness.

The 31-man team slipped into Seoul Sunday night and shot it out with South Korean police near Park's residence. They killed one police officer and five civilians, and a sixth civilian wounded in the shooting died Monday. Five of the North Korean infiltrators were also killed.

Court Ruling Is Reversed

The Fourth District Court of Appeals has reversed a ruling by Pickaway County Common Pleas Judge William Ammer in which Russell Jones, Kingston, was found in contempt of court.

The contempt ruling resulted from a divorce case by the Jones' children. When Jones did comply with the visitation ruling of the court, he was found in contempt.

The appellate court held that the local court had no right to grant visitation rights to an aunt and therefore the contempt ruling was not proper.

Judge Weds Couples

Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb performed marriage ceremonies Friday and Monday.

Dennis Harvey, Lockbourne, was married to Mrs. James Avery, Lockbourne, on Friday.

Peter Phalen, Columbus, was married to Mrs. Anna Booth, Columbus, Monday.

Solons Approve Auditor's Trip

Pickaway County Commissioners during a routine session Monday authorized payment of current bills and approved a request by auditor Marvin Rhoades to attend an auditors meeting in Dayton.

Commissioners okayed an appropriation of $25 for Mrs. Rhoades to cover the expenses of the trip. Present for yesterday's meeting were Commission Chairman Wayne Hines, Charles Morris and Lloyd Melvin.

Mrs. Geneva Brink, the clerk of the commissioners, is ill. Yesterday Hines partially assumed the clerk's duties. Today Melvin was attending to the routine duties of the clerk and keeping the commissioners office open.

Mandatory Water Fluoridation Looms

By STEPHEN H. MILLER
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Mandatory water fluoridation may be near for Ohioans who have stubbornly resisted what dental spokesmen say is an essential health measure and an economic necessity.

By then anti-fluoridationists preparing for the state house showdown expected in 1969 or 1970 think it may give them a victory in a battle they've been fighting for 17 years.

"I'm confident we can gather enough support to defeat it," says Dr. Johnathan Foreman of the anti-fluoridation Ohio Pure Water Association, a Columbus allergist and health food advocate.

"It's not safe, it doesn't do the work and secondarily, of course, it's a form of compulsory medicine," Foreman says. "It's so safe we don't even debate the point anymore," says Kenneth W. Meckstroth, head of the Ohio Dental Association's office.

"We know it's safe. It's an economic issue now." Virtually all major medical and dental associations say standard fluoridation—one drop of a fluoride compound per million drops of water—is safe. The Ohio Department of Health says it doesn't consider the state's higher natural levels of up to 2.8 parts per million harmful either.

The American Dental Association says extended use of fluoridated water can cut tooth decay and loss by up to 65 per cent. Though supported by 24 medical, dental and governmental organizations including the Ohio Department of Health, the American Medical Association and the American Dental Association, Ohio's fluoridation efforts have gone poorly.

The state has 124 communities with what health officials consider adequate natural fluoridation. Avon and Avon Lake were the first to begin artificial fluoridation. Since they started in 1951, only 123 other communities have followed.

Girl Should Heed Mother's Advice

DEAR ABBY: I need your opinion on something. My mother tells me it is not right for a girl to go to her boy friend's apartment. She says it will ruin her reputation for good even if nothing happens.

She says that even nice girls can get into trouble by going to their boy friend's apartments—that being together all alone is just tempting fate and pressing your luck.

Highway Fund Holdback Set Through '68

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Transportation Alan S. Boyd announced today that $600 million in federal highway money will be held back during the 1968 calendar year to fight inflation.

The department said this was a five per cent reduction in the level of obligation to states in 1967.

But the federal highway fund is growing each year, and the reduction will put the level about 13 per cent below what will be available this year.

The total obligational level for this calendar year will be $4.115 billion, Boyd said. He described the holdback as a "modest but essential move to combat general inflationary tendencies in the economy."

Boyd had warned the nation's governors last October that the highway program could be held back by as much as one half.

While the reduction announced today will slow highway construction, carried out by the states, it has no effect on the budget. This is because income for the highway program—mainly from gasoline taxes—will grow in the federal highway trust fund which can be used for no other purpose than highways.

Drug Is Tested As Cancer Cure

TOKYO (AP) — Officials of a pharmaceutical company reported today that a Japanese research team has developed a drug which cured a cancer in the roof of a man's mouth and achieved "encouraging" results in clinical tests on other cancer patients at the Kanazawa University Hospital.

In some cases, officials of the Chugai Pharmaceutical Co. said, the drug has produced a "drastic" improvement and in others "slow" results.

The research team is headed by Prof. Hajime Okamoto, director of the department of pharmacology at Kanazawa University. The team has worked in collaboration with the Chugai company, which said it has marketing rights on the new drug.

UPSET MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: You probably can't, so quit stewing about it. The problem isn't HIS beard, it's YOUR inability to accept it. He is 28, Mother, and if the beard makes him look "older," or "ridiculous," HE will have to suffer the consequences.

DEAR ABBY: This is in reference to the IRATE MOTHER who objected to some of the questions her child had been asked in connection with a school questionnaire. ("Do your parents sleep together? Which parent do you love more—your mother or your father? Do you believe in God?")—to name a few. Well, I think I have her beat:

The other day a 14-year-old neighbor girl rang my bell. When I opened my door she asked, "How do you feel about legalized abortion?"

And she stood right there with a pencil and paper, waiting to take down my answer.

I asked her why she wanted to know, and she said her teacher was making a "public opinion survey," and all the kids in her class were "polling" as many housewives as possible.

I was so flabbergasted I didn't know what else to say, so I told her I had a headache and to come back later.

Mandatory Water Fluoridation Looms

By STEPHEN H. MILLER
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Mandatory water fluoridation may be near for Ohioans who have stubbornly resisted what dental spokesmen say is an essential health measure and an economic necessity.

By then antifluoridationists preparing for the state house showdown expected in 1969 or 1970 think it may give them a victory in a battle they've been

Dear Abby: Girl Should Heed Mother's Advice

DEAR ABBY: I need your opinion on something. My mother tells me it is not right for a girl to go to her boyfriend's apartment. She says it will ruin her reputation for good even if nothing happens. She says that even nice girls can get into trouble by going to their boyfriend's apartments—that being together all alone is just tempting fate and pressing your luck. Miss Abby, I've been brought up to obey my parents, but lately I'm confused. My friends at college say "everybody does

Highway Fund Holdback Set Through '68

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Transportation Alan S. Boyd announced today that $600 million in federal highway money will be held back during the 1968 calendar year to fight inflation. The department said this was a five per cent reduction in the level of obligation to states in 1967. But the federal highway fund is growing each year, and the reduction will put the level about 13 per cent below what will be available this year. The total obligation level for this calendar year will be $4.115 billion, Boyd said. He described the holdback as a "modest but essential move to combat general inflationary tendencies in the economy."

Boyd had warned the nation's governors last October that the highway program could be held back by as much as one half. While the reduction announced today will slow highway construction, carried out by the states, it has no effect on the budget. This is because income for the highway program—mainly from gasoline taxes—will grow in the federal highway trust fund which can be used for no other purpose than highways.

Drug Is Tested As Cancer Cure

TOKYO (AP) — Officials of a pharmaceutical company reported today that a Japanese research team has developed a drug which cured a cancer in the roof of a man's mouth and achieved "encouraging" results in clinical tests on other cancer patients at the Kanazawa University Hospital. In some cases, officials of the Chugai Pharmaceutical Co. said, the drug has produced a "drastic" improvement and in others "slow" results.

The research team is headed by Prof. Hajime Okamoto, director of the department of pharmacology at Kanazawa University. The team has worked in collaboration with the Chugai company, which said it has marketing rights on the new drug.

Cabin Cruiser, Train Collide

GUNTER, Tex. (AP) — Frantically waved red flags couldn't head off a cabin cruiser-freight train collision near this North Texas town Monday. Howard Anderson and Bob Clark were transporting a 45-foot cabin cruiser from Lake Texoma on the Oklahoma-Texas line to the Dallas Boat Show when their tractor-trailer became stalled on the railroad. They heard a train whistle and both grabbed red flags in a futile try to stop the train. The tractor-trailer and cabin cruiser were demolished. Police estimated damage at $82,000.

debate the point anymore," says Kenneth W. Meckstroth, head of the Ohio Dental Association's office. "We know it's safe. It's an economic issue now." Virtually all major medical and dental associations say standard fluoridation—one drop of a fluoride compound per million drops of water—is safe. The Ohio Department of Health says it doesn't consider the state's higher natural levels of up to 2.8 parts per million harmful either. The American Dental Association says extended use of fluoridated water can cut tooth decay and loss by up to 65 per cent. Though supported by 24 medical, dental and governmental organizations including the Ohio Department of Health, the American Medical Association and the American Dental Association, Ohio's fluoridation efforts have gone poorly. The state has 124 communities with what health officials consider adequate natural fluoridation. Avon and Avon Lake were the first to begin artificial fluoridation. Since they started in 1951, only 123 other communities have followed. The Ohio Pure Water Association says about 500 other cities and towns have rejected or done away with fluoridation. Only three major Ohio cities have fluoridated water. Cleveland began in 1956 and only eight years later reported tooth decay and loss among 300,000 school children was down 69 per cent. Toledo started in 1955 and reported a 55 per cent drop in tooth problems among second and third graders. Youngstown began in 1952 and 10 years later reported a 60 per cent improvement among children. It was estimated in 1962 that at a cost of about $120,000 in 10 years, fluoridation had saved residents $832,429 in dental bills. Fluoridation efforts have failed twice in both Columbus and Cincinnati. Akron's board of health ordered fluoridation but challengers won a court contest that the board's action was beyond its power. Ignoring medical evidence to the contrary, opponents have blamed fluoridation for, among other things, birth defects, cancer, tuberculosis, hardening of the arteries, blood diseases, eye diseases and abnormalities of bones and joints. In Ohio as elsewhere, they have called fluoridation a Communist plot. Dr. C. T. Betts, once active as an antifluoridationist in Toledo, joined the battle after spending years attacking aluminum cookware as a cause of cancer. Ohio's health department says fluoridation is one of the best things since pasteurization and the Ohio State Medical Association that fluoridation "is harmful to the general health." Both sides expect the General Assembly to consider some sort of mandatory fluoridation bill by 1969 or 1970.

A recent poll of a number of incumbent members of Congress brought universal agreement that costs of election-errand are spiraling. Some senators estimate it will cost them two to four times as much to run this year as it did six years ago.

Where the additional funds are to come from is the worry not only of the candidates, but the various party chairmen. Some Senate contests in 1964 cost the victor more than $1 million. Others went for as little as $80,000. Expenditures for House races depend upon the strength of the opposition.

The nation's taxpayer - consumers can only hope their elected officials will pay attention to the rocketing cost of doing things. Behind it all is that thing called inflation that is more persistently pinching the folks back home. Perhaps if the professional politician feels the bite hard enough, he, too, will get the message.

AS IF YOU didn't have plenty of worries enough these days, Johnny Carson lists a lot more in his amusing new book, "Misery Is a Blind Date" (illustrated by the peerless Whitney Darrow, Jr.). A few Carson nominations:

1. Finding out your daughter's screen test has just been sold as an Army training film.
2. Buying a sports car and finding that your bucket is bigger than the bucket seat.
3. Cooking an exotic, complicated French dish for five hours and then having your husband pour catsup on it.

The upstate representative of a men's shirt manufacturer went to see a revival of Arthur Miller's "Death of a Salesman," and left the theater in a deep depression, muttering, "That darn territory never WAS any good!"

Note found under the windshield wiper of a car on E. 51st St. in New York: "The people who saw me rip off the fender of a parked station wagon are watching me write this. They think I'm giving my name, address, and license number. Man, are they wrong!"

No Flicks for Women

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Why isn't a star of Lana Turner's obvious voltage making movies?

"Why aren't a lot of actresses making movies?" she asks. "Because they don't make pictures for women any more. Everything is directed toward the men. If a producer can get Steve McQueen or Paul Newman for a picture, he's got it made. He isn't interested in female stars."

But there's another reason for Miss Turner's inactivity since "Madame" two years ago. She will not play in the lurid films that dominate the movie market today.

"Look—I'm no prude," she remarked. "I think I know what's happening. But I see no reason to put raw sex on the screen. For what does it prove? That human beings are like animals? If that's what movies are coming to, then I want no part of it."

"You wouldn't believe the filth that I find in scripts sent me nowadays. Absolute filth! It makes me physically ill to read such things. And yet I notice that those pictures get made, and producers find actresses to play the rules. I feel sorry for girls who feel they have to play such parts just to keep in front of the public."

"I'd like to work, too. I feel I've still got some juices in me. I've got a figure that is all right and I don't look so bad. I'm not ready to give up on an acting career yet. But I'm not so desperate that I would take these dirty pictures that they're making today. Thank God I am in the financial position where I don't have to."

The position of Lana Turner as a moralist may seem like odd casting, but she is schooled in the old MGM tradition. In those days, certain things were left to the public's imagination. And though Lana first rose to fame as the sweater girl, she never took it off.

"That's another thing I think is revolting: these actresses who think nothing of taking off their clothes," she remarked. "Why do they do it? Don't they know that it only cheapens

The Soviet Union automobile industry is reportedly planning to increase car production from current 200,000 vehicles a year to 800,000 by 1970. While they're at it, they might as well start turning out more traffic lights, too.

Even at the rate of 800,000 new cars a year the Russians won't be crowding us off the world's road—U.S. annual auto production is better than eight million.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The idea for the Citizens Committee for Peace with Freedom in Vietnam began in the head of 75-year old Paul Douglas who, after 18 years in the U.S. Senate, lost his seat to Charles H. Percy in the Illinois election of 1966.

It's a distinguished committee whose members include former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower, General of the Army Omar Bradley, two former secretaries of State, Dean Acheson and James F. Byrnes, scientists, educators, historians, journalists, businessmen and clergymen.

The idea for the committee had its roots in the 1930s when Douglas a Quaker and then a pacifist, stood in Rome and listened to Benito Mussolini announce war on little and practically defenseless Ethiopia in Africa.

Douglas' pacifism began to melt as he began to realize that, unless checked, Fascism and Nazism, both of which subordinated individual and national freedoms to their purpose, would overrun Europe. With Europe gone, he wondered how the United States could stand alone, for this country at that time was isolationist.

He returned to his teaching job as professor of economics at the University of Chicago and later joined a group, organized by William Allen White, called the Non-Partisan Committee for revision of the Neutrality law.

The Committee's propaganda was a big factor in swinging public opinion behind repeal of the law which banned shipment of arms to Europe.

Douglas at age 50 volunteered for the Marines as a private. He came out of the war a lieutenant colonel after service in the Pacific where one of the two wounds he suffered left one of his arms almost helpless.

In 1948 he was elected to the Senate. He was one of the best and sturdiest liberals the Senate ever had. He had been for Social Security long before it became a fact in the 1930s. And in the Senate, among other things, he plugged for medicare long before that became a fact.

This seems a fair way to state his views about men and nations:

Nations must be allowed to work out their own destiny; the freedom of individuals is precious and must be preserved; peace is necessary; but the aggressive expansion of communism must be stopped.

When he left the Senate he took a part-time teaching job in New York; became chairman of the board of trustees of Freedom House, a non-partisan organization devoted to strengthening free institutions here and abroad; and early last year was appointed by President Johnson chairman of the newly-created Commission on Urban Problems.

But he was bothered by the division in America over the war in Vietnam. He supported this war against communism, just as he supported the war against communism in Korea.

He was worried about the extreme positions being taken on both sides on the present war. And he wondered how to reach the great mass of people in the center with a reasonable presentation of the facts. He thought of a committee like the William Allen White committee in the 1930s.

He wrote his views to a number of people and got a hearty response. The result was the present committee of people who share his views. Various members of the committee have a hand in writing the statements issued by the committee. This is particularly true of Eisenhower. So far it has issued only two statements: one describing its policy and the other, last week, its support of continued bombing.

Ironically the latter, full of rubbery language, was like a bowl of mush. The committee is not likely to be much benefit to public thinking until it learns to state its positions precisely, clearly and unequivocally.

Romney Gets Sympathy

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Governor George Romney, who kicked off his frostbite primary campaign in New Hampshire rather early, is suddenly getting a big sympathy play from commentators who would not give him the time of day last summer.

There is a fantastic irony about this. When Romney pulled his tactical boner about being "brainwashed" by the military on his trip to Saigon, many influential people who prefer Nelson Rockefeller to anybody else in the Republican Party thought they had a good excuse to ditch George in favor of an open Rockefeller boom. Rockefeller, however, upset them by remaining a loyal Romney supporter. Moreover, Republican governors such as Rhode Island's Chafee declined to make a switch from Romney to Rockefeller without a tip from the horse's mouth.

So, for the Rockefeller supporters it's Romney or nothing. Romney can't beat Nixon in the early primaries, or at least make it close, the game is just about up for any candidate who is considered to the left of the Republican center.

Realization of this has resulted in the liberal commentators' refusal to pick up Romney's gaffe in New Hampshire about the Mexican Revolution, which he casually referred to as "the first Communist war of National Liberation." The Mexican Revolution, of course, owed nothing to Communism; it began as a liberal movement under Madero long before there was any Bolshevik government in Russia. The generals who fought for possession of the Mexican Revolution — Carranza, Zapata, Pancho Villa — were of various colors on the Right-Left spectrum, but none of them were Marxists. Carranza was a constitutionalist Villa was a bandit, Zapata was a Populist. The Mexican Revolution was mestizo and Indian vs. the old Spanish families, and in the Twenties it settled down under Plutarco Elias Calles, who was considered by Communists to be a reactionary. The closest thing to Mexican Communism occurred in the Thirties when President Cardenas listened to an occasional plaint from Marxist trade union leader, Lombard do Toledano.

There is no particular reason to use Romney's error about Mexican "Communism" against him, for Pancho Villa and Zapata might very well have become Leninists if they had ever had a chance to study Lenin. They were radical enough, anyway. But if Romney's word for the Mexican Revolution was just a forgivable slip of the tongue, so his use of "brainwashing" was just a harmless way of saying that he had lived and learned something in relation to Vietnam. The mock horror about the brainwashing gaffe had never been justified in the first place. It was exploited by people who wanted to clear the track for a Rockefeller or a Percy in the upcoming primaries.

Now that the liberals know they must go with Romney, they are pressing his underdog quality by spreading stories that he is five-to-one behind Nixon in New Hampshire. This is ridiculous: not even Harold Stassen could run five-to-one behind an opponent in a two-man race. Unless there are write-in shenanigans in New Hampshire, Romney will come much closer in the March showdown than any January poll indicates. The realists in the Nixon camp say that Romney has reached bottom, and is already on his way up. They are impressed with the thoroughness of Romney's computerized approach to the New Hampshire Republican electorate, and look to see George do well with his face-to-face brand of personal salesmanship. The Nixonites do not look with favor on debating Romney, for they are sure they are going to win anyway, though not by any five-to-one margin, and they don't want to lose November votes by violent party bloodletting in March.

Anyway, there isn't a great deal to debate between Romney and Nixon. They're both for law and order, both for finding programs for the slums that will be closer to the needs of the slum-dwellers than anything envisioned by the LBJ poverty fighters, both for staying with the South Vietnamese until an honorable peace can be attained, and both for sounder fiscal policies than we now have. Goldwater is for Nixon, but he has said he'll vote for Romney if he is the party's choice for President. He coupled this promise with a statement that "Rockefeller dumped Nixon and me, so I just frankly can't see how any Republican can support him."

One reason Rockefeller sticks to Romney is that he is personally a realist about this business of Goldwater enmity. Only a real Rockefeller draft after a long and agonizing Romney-Nixon convention stand-off could succeed in overcoming Goldwater's anti-Rockefeller stance as of this moment.

Dear Sir:

According to the Herald's Roundtown Column our new mayor is acting like a bull in a china shop in taking over his job at City Hall.

This is quite a switch from the norm. In the past it has been the custom to start things off with a song and dance and go "tipping through the tulips" for the duration.

As I see it, what matters if the "bull" does knock over a few of those antiques that have been cluttering up City Hall for far too many years?

As a parting word I say — "Viva el toro!"

WASHINGTON REPORT

From
WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
6th District, Ohio

Representing people in Congress is a dual responsibility. Congressmen must work to carry out the mandate of those who elect them and they must, in turn, report to their constituents the facts of life as they effect the well-being and strength of the nation as a whole.

Acting and communicating with both the local and national welfare in mind can expose a man to pressure. Take the President's requested ten percent surtax, for instance.

Economists, international bankers and treasury officials join in supporting any action designed to cut down or eliminate deficit spending by our Government.

Given the elementary facts, there seems to be but one thing to do — increase taxation. "Then why," you ask, "do you persist in opposing the tax surcharge?"

I have voted and will vote against this tax increase because I honestly doubt that such action would solve the real problem that threatens to destroy our economy — irresponsible, uncontrolled spending!

There is ample evidence that increased taxation without significant cuts in spending would simply tighten the noose that is already uncomfortably tight around the necks of taxpayers.

I believe that it is time for a show down in federal spending! Great Society legislators as well as the Administration need to realize this.

Too few voters realize that, including expenditures from certain trust funds, the Federal Government plans to pay out more than $180 billion this fiscal year. That adds up to about $900 for every man, woman and child in the country.

It represents $5,400 for a man with 4 children. And present trends aim for the stratosphere.

In 7 years, the present Administration has increased annual spending by more than $80 billion. Compare that with a $23 billion increase in 8 years under the Eisenhower Administration.

This Administration blames most of the increase on the war in Vietnam. Actually, all defense spending, including war costs, has gone up by only $29 billion. — up a whopping $51 billion!

Confidence in the dollar is waning overseas. Our gold supplies are dwindling as foreign speculators dump dollars. Segments of our society to whom we owe the most are already getting hurt as inflation bites into savings and insurance benefits.

In spite of all this, new plans and schemes proliferate, each requiring more dollars yet failing to correct the ills.

Until the picture changes and new attitudes emerge, any tax increase would merely hasten the enslavement of those who end up paying the bill.

According to Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Curbstone comments of a Pavement Plato:

It has long been an American dream to win fame and fortune by taking advantage of the opportunities which are at least theoretically available to all in our country.

But is that really the most popular American dream? Or is it really only one of our more popular daydreams? The evidence indicates the latter is more true.

Over the last quarter of a century it has been my pleasure on occasion—and merely my duty at other times—to interview several hundred people who were famous or rich or both. The experience has left me with the conviction that a majority of Americans do not have as their basic heart's desire the wish to be either famous or very wealthy.

They do not seem to feel the game is worth the candle.

Being famous and being quite rich are, of course, two quite different things, although they often do go hand in hand.

It is a fairly simple thing to become notorious in the United States, a land which is perhaps inordinately enchanted by novelty.

You can become notorious by standing on your head at an opening of the Metropolitan Opera, by insulting the president in public, by trying to make a religion out of LSD, or by riding a hippopotamus backward up Pike's Peak.

But although you can achieve notoriety by attracting attention, you need more than that to win fame. To become famous you have to have other attributes—such as talent or genius, great courage or tremendous dedication.

In this category fall such men as Albert Schweitzer, Albert Einstein, Dr. Jonas Salk and Robert Frost. In the achievement of fame, the making of money was secondary to the dedicated expression of genius.

But how about that so-called American dream of becoming a millionaire? Does it require either dedication or genius?

Genius, no—dedication, usually yes.

Of the many self-made millionaires I have met, I can't recall one who felt it took any extraordinary mental ability to become rich. And most of them agreed the opportunities to earn a million dollars are more plentiful today than at any previous time in history, despite the prevalence of taxes.

What does it take, then, to become a millionaire. Here is a summary of what many who have done it in their own lifetime have told me:

"Unless it happens through one big streak of luck, and this is unusual, what it takes to make a million dollars is common sense, energy, and endless attention to your business.

"Almost anyone who is ordinarily intelligent can become rich if he makes that his main goal, and sticks to it. But you don't get a million dollars for nothing. You generally have to sacrifice a lot of other things along the way—leisure, play, hobbies, many of the pleasures of family life.

The Soviet Union automobile industry is reportedly planning to increase car production from current 200,000 vehicles a year to 800,000 by 1970. While they're at it, they might as well start turning out more traffic lights, too.

Even at the rate of 800,000 new cars a year the Russians won't be crowding us off the world's road—U.S. annual auto production is better than eight million.

No Flicks for Women

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Why isn't a star of Lana Turner's obvious voltage making movies?

"Why aren't a lot of actresses making movies?" she asks.

"Because they don't make pictures for women any more. Everything is directed toward the men. If a producer can get Steve McQueen or Paul Newman for a picture, he's got it made. He isn't interested in female stars."

But there's another reason for Miss Turner's inactivity since "Madame" two years ago. She will not play in the lurid films that dominate the movie market today.

"Look—I'm no prude," she remarked. "I think I know what's happening. But I see no reason to put raw sex on the screen. For what does it prove? That human beings are like animals? If that's what movies are coming to, then I want no part of it."

"You wouldn't believe the filth that I find in scripts sent to me nowadays. Absolute filth! It makes me physically ill to read such things. And yet I notice that those pictures get made, and producers find actresses to play the roles. I feel sorry for girls who feel they have to play such parts just to keep in front of the public."

"I'd like to work, too. I feel I've still got some juices in me. I've got a figure that is all right and I don't look so bad. I'm not ready to give up on an acting career yet. But I'm not so desperate that I would take these dirty pictures that they're making today. Thank God I am in the financial position where I don't have to."

The position of Lana Turner as moralist may seem like odd casting, but she is schooled in the old MGM tradition. In those days, certain things were left to the public's imagination. And though Lana first rose to fame as the sweeter girl, she never took it off.

"That's another thing I think is revolting: these actresses who think nothing of taking off their clothes," she remarked. "Why do they do it? Don't they know that it only cheapens them? Some things are better left to the imagination; a man's conception of what a girl really looks like is usually better than how she looks in the nude.

"And how many bare bosoms can you look at? There can't be much thrill left after you've seen a lot of them."

TODAY In History

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The idea for the Citizens Committee for Peace with Freedom in Vietnam began in the head of 75-year old Paul Douglas who, after 18 years in the U.S. Senate, lost his seat to Charles H. Percy in the Illinois election of 1966.

It's a distinguished committee whose members include former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower, General of the Army Omar Bradley, two former secretaries of State, Dean Acheson and James F. Byrnes, scientists, educators, historians, journalists, businessmen and clergymen.

The idea for the committee had its roots in the 1930s when Douglas a Quaker and then a pacifist, stood in Rome and listened to Benito Mussolini announce war on little and practically defenseless Ethiopia in Africa.

Douglas' pacifism began to melt as he began to realize that, unless checked, Fascism and Nazism, both of which subordinated individual and national freedoms to their purpose, would overrun Europe. With Europe gone, he wondered how the United States could stand alone, for this country at that time was isolationist.

He returned to his teaching job as professor of economics at the University of Chicago and later joined a group, organized by William Allen White, called the Non-Partisan Committee for revision of the Neutrality law.

The Committee's propaganda was a big factor in swinging public opinion behind repeal of the law which banned shipment of arms to Europe.

Douglas at age 50 volunteered for the Marines as a private. He came out of the war a lieutenant colonel after service in the Pacific where one of the two wounds he suffered left one of his arms almost helpless.

In 1948 he was elected to the Senate. He was one of the best and sturdiest liberals the Senate ever had. He had been for Social Security long before it became a fact in the 1930s. And in the Senate, among other things, he plugged for medicare long before that became a fact.

This seems a fair way to state his views about men and nations:

Nations must be allowed to work out their own destiny; the freedom of individuals is precious and must be preserved; peace is necessary; but the aggressive expansion of communism must be stopped.

When he left the Senate he took a part-time teaching job in New York; became chairman of the board of trustees of Freedom House, a non-partisan organization devoted to strengthening free institutions here and abroad; and early last year was appointed by President Johnson chairman of the newly-created Commission on Urban Problems.

But he was bothered by the division in America over the war in Vietnam. He supported this war against communism, just as he supported the war against communism in Korea.

He was worried about the extreme positions being taken on both sides on the present war. And he wondered how to reach the great mass of people in the center with a reasonable presentation of the facts. He thought of a committee like the William Allen White committee in the 1930s.

He wrote his views to a number of people and got a hearty response. The result was the present committee of people who share his views. Various members of the committee have a hand in writing the statements issued by the committee. This is particularly true of Eisenhower. So far it has issued only two statements: one describing its policy and the other, last week, its support of continued bombing.

Ironically the latter, full of rubbery language, was like a bowl of mush. The committee is not likely to be much benefit to public thinking until it learns to state its positions precisely, clearly and unequivocally.

Romney Gets Sympathy

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Governor George Romney, who kicked off his frostbite primary campaign in New Hampshire rather early, is suddenly getting a big sympathy play from commentators who would not give him the time of day last summer.

There is a fantastic irony about this. When Romney pulled his tactical boner about being "brainwashed" by the military on his trip to Saigon, many influential people who prefer Nelson Rockefeller to anybody else in the Republican Party thought they had a good excuse to ditch George in favor of an open Rockefeller boom. Rockefeller, however, up set them by remaining a loyal Romney supporter. Moreover, Republican governors such as Rhode Island's Chafee declined to make a switch from Romney to Rockefeller without a tip from the horse's mouth.

So, for the Rockefeller supporters it's Romney or nothing. If Romney can't beat Nixon in the early primaries, or at least make it close, the game is just about up for any candidate who is considered to the left of the Republican center.

Realization of this has resulted in the liberal commentators' refusal to pick up Romney's gaffe in New Hampshire about the Mexican Revolution, which he casually referred to as "the first Communist war of National Liberation." The Mexican Revolution, of course, owed nothing to Communism; it began as a liberal movement under Madero long before there was any Bolshevik government in Russia. The generals who fought for possession of the Mexican Revolution — Carranza, Zapata, Pancho Villa — were of various colors on the Right-Left spectrum, but none of them were Marxists. Carranza was a constitutionalist. Villa was a bandit. Zapata was a Populist. The Mexican Revolution was mestizo and Indian vs. the old Spanish families, and in the Twenties it settled down under Plutarco Elias Calles, who was considered by Communists to be a reactionary. The closest thing to Mexican Communism occurred in the Thirties when President Cardenas listened to an occasional plaint from Marxist trade union leader, Lombard, and both for sounder fiscal policies than we now have.

There is no particular reason to use Romney's error about Mexican "Communism" against him, for Pancho Villa and Zapata might very well have become Leninists if they had ever had a chance to study Lenin. They were radical enough, anyway. But if Romney's word for the Mexican Revolution was just a forgivable slip of the tongue, so his use of "brainwashing" was just a harmless way of saying that he had lived and learned something in relation to Vietnam. The mock horror about the brainwashing gaffe had never been justified in the first place. It was exploited by people who wanted to clear the track for a Rockefeller or a Percy in the upcoming primaries.

Now that the liberals know they must go with Romney, they are pressing his underdog quality by spreading stories that he is five-to-one behind Nixon in New Hampshire. This is ridiculous: not even Harold Stassen could run five-to-one behind an opponent in a two-man race. Unless there are write-in shenanigans in New Hampshire, Romney will come much closer in the March showdown than any January poll indicates. The realists in the Nixon camp say that Romney has reached bottom, and is already on his way up. They are impressed with the thoroughness of Romney's computerized approach to the New Hampshire Republican electorate, and look to see George do well with his face-to-face brand of personal salesmanship. The Nixonites do not look with favor on debating Romney, for they are sure they are going to win anyway, though not by any five-to-one margin, and they don't want to lose November votes by violent party bloodletting in March.

Anyway, there isn't a great deal to debate between Romney and Nixon. They're both for law and order, both for finding programs for the slums that will be closer to the needs of the slum-dwellers than anything envisioned by the LBJ poverty fighters, both for staying with the South Vietnamese until an honorable peace can be attained, and both for sounder fiscal policies than we now have. Goldwater is for Nixon, but he has said he'll vote for Romney if he is the party's choice for President. He coupled this promise with a statement that "Rockefeller dumped Nixon and me, so I just frankly can't see how any Republican can support him."

One reason Rockefeller sticks to Romney is that he is personally a realist about this business of Goldwater enmity. Only a real Rockefeller draft after a long and agonizing Romney-Nixon convention stand-off could succeed in overcoming Goldwater's anti-Rockefeller stance as of this moment.

Dear Sir:
According to the Herald's Roundtown Column our new mayor is acting like a bull in a china shop in taking over his job at City Hall.

This is quite a switch from the norm. In the past it has been the custom to start things off with a song and dance and go "tipping through the tulips" for the duration.

As I see it, what matters if the "bull" does knock over a few of those antiques that have been cluttering up City Hall for far too many years?

As a parting word I say — "Viva el toro!"

WASHINGTON REPORT

From
WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
6th District, Ohio

Representing people in Congress is a dual responsibility.

Congressmen must work to carry out the mandate of those who elect them and they must, in turn, report to their constituents the facts of life as they effect the well-being and strength of the nation as a whole.

Acting and communicating with both the local and national welfare in mind can expose a man to pressure. Take the President's requested ten percent surtax, for instance.

Economists, international bankers and treasury officials join in supporting any action designed to cut down or eliminate deficit spending by our Government.

Given the elementary facts, there seems to be but one thing to do — increase taxation. "Then why," you ask, "do you persist in opposing the tax surcharge?" I have voted and will vote against this tax increase because I honestly doubt that such action would solve the real problem that threatens to destroy our economy — irresponsible, uncontrolled spending!

There is ample evidence that increased taxation without significant cuts in spending would simply tighten the noose that is already uncomfortably tight around the necks of taxpayers.

I believe that it is time for a show down in federal spending! Great Society legislators as well as the Administration need to realize this.

Too few voters realize that, including expenditures from certain trust funds, the Federal Government plans to pay out more than $180 billion this fiscal year. That adds up to about $900 for every man, woman and child in the country.

It represents $5,400 for a man with 4 children. And present trends aim for the stratosphere.

In 7 years, the present Administration has increased annual spending by more than $80 billion. Compare that with a $23 billion increase in 8 years under the Eisenhower Administration.

This Administration blames most of the increase on the war in Vietnam. Actually, all defense spending, including war costs, has gone up by only $29 billion. — up a whopping $51 billion!

Confidence in the dollar is waning overseas. Our gold supplies are dwindling as foreign speculators dump dollars. Segments of our society to whom we owe the most are already getting hurt as inflation bites into savings and insurance benefits.

In spite of all this, new plans and schemes proliferate, each requiring more dollars yet failing to correct the ills.

Until the picture changes and new attitudes emerge, any tax increase would merely hasten the enslavement of those who end up paying the bill.

'Ugly Duckling' Spacecraft Makes Successful Flight

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The ugly duckling spacecraft built to set Americans on the moon - Lunar Module 1 - performed so gracefully in Monday's maiden flight that the next one launched probably will be used by men, top space agency officials said today.

The seven-hour, 52-minute flight Monday was flawed only by an abbreviated firing of the rocket to be used to make a gentle moon landing.

As the orbiting moonship coasted over the Indian Ocean, that engine started up. But a touchy computer aboard sensed low fuel pressure and shut it off. Mueller said an astronaut in the ship could have whipped the problem in no time flat. "Unfortunately, there wasn't a man there," he said.

On the second try, the back-down engine performed at full thrust and then at 10 per cent of full thrust, exactly as controllers told it to. The change of plan ruled out a test of how it would work at thrust rates in between.

Then, in the most crucial checkout, the craft's getaway engine began firing while the descent rocket still burned. This

"fire in the hole" test duplicated the procedure astronauts would follow in lifting away from a potentially hazardous lunar touchdown. The lunar module passed it perfectly.

Free of its landing stage, which would be a launch platform on the moon, the passenger sections' ascent engine fired for 6 1/2 minutes. This was a test of the lunar takeoff which start two astronauts from the moon to the Apollo command ship waiting to carry them home to earth.

Scientists said the final surge apparently consigned the craft to destruction by fiery reentry into the atmosphere, but no plans were possible or planned for recovery of the ship, which was built to operate only in space.

Bristling with antennae, its mantis-like folding legs left off for this test in earth orbit, Lunar Module 1 was lifted from Cape Kennedy by a Saturn 1B rocket - the same rocket atop which the three Apollo astronauts died a year ago next Saturday in the fire which crippled the nation's moon program.

Missing Ballots Being Sought

FALLS CREEK, Pa. (AP) — State police have been asked to find Falls Creek's missing ballots.

CBC Announces Speaker for Revival

REV. MORTON DORSEY

The Rev. Morton W. Dorsey, nationally known evangelist and former president of Circleville Bible College, will be the speaker for the opening revival second semester at the local Bible college.

This year the effort will be a cooperative one sponsored not only by the college, but by the three Circleville Churches of Christ in Christian Union — Ohio Street, Jefferson, and campus — as well as the churches in Amanda, Stoutsville, Kingston, Williamsport, Ashville, and Pherson.

Meetings, starting tonight, will be held in the Ohio Street Church at 7:30, Tuesday through Friday. Special music in addition to the preaching of Rev. Morton Dorsey will characterize the program.

In addition to the evening services, Mr. Dorsey will also speak each morning in the college chapel at 10:30.

Union Marches Another Away

KISSIMMEE, Fla. (AP) — When more than 20 nonunion construction workers entered the site where Disney World is being built Monday about 300 striking workers formed the intruders into ranks and marched them off, the Osceola County sheriff's office said.

The nonunion workers were forced to chant: "The union wins. We won't be back again," according to deputies. No arrests were made.

Mahoning County Faces Strike

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — The Mahoning County engineer's office, hit by a strike by two rival unions, is seeking to end the dilemma by arranging a bargaining agent election.

Both Teamsters Local 377 and Local 47 of the Building Service and Maintenance Union struck Monday, each demanding it be recognized as bargaining agent for engineer's employees.

Dan Brott, president of the Teamsters local, and Mike Pochiro, business agent for the Building Service local, each said they would not agree to an election. They said they had membership cards from 120 employees, about evenly divided between the two locals.

Methodist Youth To Meet

The Honorable Clarence E. Miller, Congressman of the 10th District, will be the guest speaker at the Chillicothe District Mid-Winter Institute at Lancaster First Methodist Church 1:30 p. m. Sunday. The Dean of the Institute, Rev. Roger Ashley, pastor of McArthur Methodist Church, and Associate Dean, Rev. Thomas A. Cook, Jr. pastor of the Frankfort Charge, have announced the theme "Our World Is Your World."

The program will begin with welcome and announcements by the District Director of Youth Work, Rev. John Williams, pastor of the Millersport Methodist Church. Resource leaders will meet with youth groups from 1:30-3 p. m.

There will be discussion groups with highlights from the discussion. The Vinton Girl Ensemble Chorus will sing under the direction of Mrs. Esther Mae Cassill prior to the afternoon speaker.

Congressman Clarence E. Miller will address the group from 4:40-5 p. m. This program will give youth a look into the future and will point the way for discussion and action.

Youth's Death Due to Drugs

CINCINNATI (AP) — Acute drug intoxication was the cause of death for 16-year-old Mark Lynch whose body was found on a sidewalk in suburban Mount Adams last Thursday, a preliminary coroner's report discloses.

Dr. Frank Cleveland of Hamilton County said traces of a prescription pain killer and a cough syrup containing codeine were found in the body.

Following the disclosure Monday, police subpoenaed several persons to appear in juvenile court for a hearing for one juvenile who told them he lived where Lynch visited shortly before he died. The hearing date was not disclosed.

CBC Announces Speaker for Revival

REV. MORTON DORSEY

The Rev. Morton W. Dorsey, nationally known evangelist and former president of Circleville Bible College, will be the speaker for the opening revival second semester at the local Bible college.

This year the effort will be a cooperative one sponsored not only by the college, but by the three Circleville Churches of Christ in Christian Union — Ohio Street, Jefferson, and campus — as well as the churches in Amanda, Stoutsville, Kingston, Williamsport, Ashville, and Pherson.

Meetings, starting tonight, will be held in the Ohio Street Church at 7:30, Tuesday through Friday. Special music in addition to the preaching of Rev. Morton Dorsey will characterize the program.

In addition to the evening services, Mr. Dorsey will also speak each morning in the college chapel at 10:30.

Mahoning County Faces Strike

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — The Mahoning County engineer's office, hit by a strike by two rival unions, is seeking to end the dilemma by arranging a bargaining agent election.

Both Teamsters Local 377 and Local 47 of the Building Service and Maintenance Union struck Monday, each demanding it be recognized as bargaining agent for engineer's employees.

Dan Brott, president of the Teamsters local, and Mike Pochiro, business agent for the Building Service local, each said they would not agree to an election. They said they had membership cards from 120 employees, about evenly divided between the two locals.

OHIO CASH GRAIN

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Dept. of Agri. cash grain prices: No 2 red wheat unchanged to mostly 1 lower 1.29-1.34, mostly 1.30-1.33; No 2 yellow corn mostly unchanged 99-1.04 per bu, mostly 1.00-1.02; No 2 oats mostly unchanged 75-85, mostly 77-80; No 1 soybeans mostly unchanged to 1 lower 256-2.60, mostly 2.56-2.58.

Union Marches Another Away

KISSIMMEE, Fla. (AP) — When more than 20 nonunion construction workers entered the site where Disney World is being built Monday about 300 striking workers formed the intruders into ranks and marched them off, the Osceola County sheriff's office said.

The nonunion workers were forced to chant: "The union wins. We won't be back again," according to deputies. No arrests were made.

Plywood Wall Auctioned Off

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An eight-foot high plywood wall surrounding a construction project on the University of Pennsylvania campus was torn down Monday, but students who had left their marks on it in the form of slogans and housepaint artwork didn't want to see it go to oblivion.

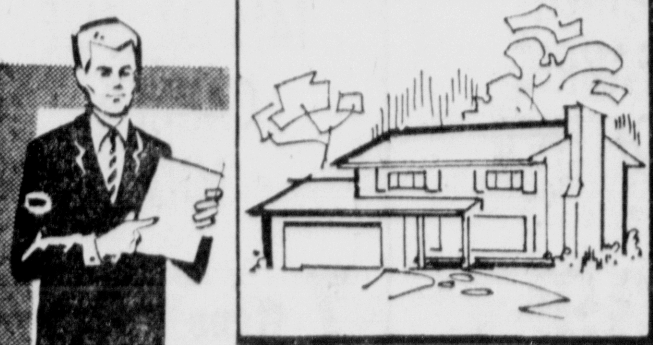

So it was auctioned off, chunk by chunk, to the highest bidders.

A panel bearing the message: "Dear Ronnie: you are exquisitely, subtly lovely, Marc," went for $10—over the protests of a pretty girl who was outbid. "But I was the Ronnie it was written to," she said.

Auto Talks Continue

DETROIT (AP)—Negotiators for the United Auto Workers and Chrysler Canada Ltd. worked today against a strike deadline of noon Wednesday in an effort to write a pattern-setting labor contract for some 44,000 Canadian auto workers.

GENERAL CHAIRMEN — Chosen to head this year's production of the High Fever Follies, sponsored by all the Berger Hospital Guilds, are from the left Mrs. Robert McKelvey, Mrs. Roger Bennington and Mrs. Randolph Clark.

Dr. Zollinger Addresses Nurses Assn.

Pickaway County Registered and Graduate Nurses Assn. held its January meeting recently in the home of Mrs. Charles Wellman, 826 N. Court St.

Speaker for the evening was Dr. Richard Zollinger, surgical chief of staff at Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus. His topic was "New Surgical Procedures and Their Followup of Surgery."

Dr. Zollinger began with the gastro-intestinal tract and the esophagus and its surgical approach. He related in detail the procedures of surgery in the treatment of ulcers, cancer and numerous less known maladies.

Following his talk, Dr. Zollinger answered numerous questions. He also explained the recent heart transplant, rejection and prognosis.

Mrs. James Fosbaugh, president, conducted the business meeting. Volunteers were obtained for the next visit of the Bloodmobile and Well Child Clinic.

Members decided not to have the Valentine Tea for junior and senior students of Pickaway County this year, but they would resume this project next year.

The February meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Mabel Sanguily, Walnut Creek Pike. Co-hostesses will be Mrs. Larry Priest, Miss Margaret Good and Mrs. William Neal. Dr. James H. Williams will be guest speaker. His topic will be "Obstetrics and Gynecology."

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Wellman, Mrs. Jack Linton, Mrs. Glen Christy and Miss Mary Ann Atwood.

Cpl. P. Leach Honored with Family Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Grooms, Route 4, honored their son Cpl. Paul D. Leach, recently returned from Vietnam, with a family dinner on Sunday.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grooms and daughter Melanie of Columbus, Miss Linda Wilson of Ringgold, Miss Karen Sparks and Mrs. Estella Grooms of Circleville, Dana, Jeff and Kenny Grooms of the home.

Cpl. Leach will be stationed at Fort Sill, Okla., beginning March 5.

Equal parts of dark molasses, prepared mustard and cider vinegar make a barbecue sauce that has become popular for use on fresh pork spareribs that are being over-roasted.

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary for Ohio:

Winter returned to Ohio this morning. A cold front entered the northwest corner of the state Monday evening and before daybreak had swept over all but the southeast corner.

Spotty rain, drizzle and widespread fog accompanied the passage of the cold front. As the cold air deepened, the northern counties had snow and snow flurries. These were to become general over the state today but remain well scattered most areas removed from Lake Erie.

Temperatures at 6 a.m. ranged from 32 in Toledo and Youngstown to 38 in Cincinnati, and into the lower 40s along the Ohio River from Portsmouth to Marietta.

Accompanying the cold air southward is a low pressure center north of Lake Ontario. This low is moving toward the east at about 20 miles per hour. Skies will be mostly cloudy with snow flurries persisting near Lake Erie into Wednesday.

Check Area in Cambodia Where Reds, U.S. Clashed

KOMPONG TRABEK, Cambodia (AP) — Newsmen inspecting the area where Cambodia says it repulsed a U.S.-South Vietnamese attack found two bloody bandages, some insect repellent containers marked "U.S." and hundreds of .30-caliber shell casings.

Some of the ground was splattered with dried blood and the trees were shredded and blackened around the bullet-pocked fortified outpost where the press chief of the Cambodian Ministry of Information took newsmen for a briefing on the incident last Thursday.

Cambodian officials say their forces killed three Americans and 20 South Vietnamese who they charge penetrated about 100 yards into Cambodia and fired at Cambodian soldiers who had been sleeping outside the post.

The outpost is northwest of Saigon in an area where the border is poorly marked and disputed, but the U.S. State Department in Washington acknowledged Monday that a U.S.-South Vietnamese patrol had intruded 75 yards inside Cambodian territory last Thursday.

It sent formal regrets for any Cambodian casualties that may have resulted.

The incident occurred "during the heat of battle," in which the allied patrol was defending itself from Viet Cong gunfire coming from both sides of the border, said Robert J. McCloskey, State Department press officer.

"We regret the intrusion," he said. "It was unintended and undertaken without any hostile intent."

It was the first, officially acknowledged case of allied forces applying the principle stated a week ago by Assistant Secretary of State William P. Bundy—that American forces would exercise the right to defend themselves if Communist forces use Cambodia as a base for attacking American forces in Vietnam and as a sanctuary for retreat.

No Significant Change in Ratings

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Potent Columbus East, which hasn't lost a regular season game in two years, continues to hold down the No. 1 spot in the weekly Associated Press high school basketball ratings.

Coach Bob Hart's Tigers, rolling along at an 11-0 pace, piled up 202 points from the sports writers and broadcasters who vote in the poll.

That gave the leaders a commanding 64-point bulge over most 100 points over third place Toledo Central.

Toledo Central, 12-0, swapped places with Cleveland East, 11-0, in the only significant changes in the top ten.

Here's the way the teams are rated in The Associated Press poll of Ohio's high school basketball teams:

School	W L Pts.
1. Columbus East	11 0 202
2. Middletown	12 1 138
3. Toledo Central	12 0 106

Cincy Escapes From Memphis With Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Things got a bit technical for Cincinnati and Memphis State Monday night.

Five technical fouls were called as Cincinnati escaped from Memphis and its faithful followers—with an overtime 71-68 Missouri Valley Conference basketball victory.

Two technical fouls were called against Memphis because of home court fan behavior aided the Cincinnati cause in the extra period. The technicals came in the closing seconds after fans tossed litter onto the court.

Another technical was called State Coach Moe Iba and two others were against Cincinnati players Rick Roberson and John Howard, all for protesting calls by the officials.

It was a bit quieter in Columbus, where the Ohio State Buckeyes easily defeated Georgia Tech 66-55. In other Ohio Games, Toledo trounced the Coast Guard Academy 83-55, Cleveland State downed Muskingum 6-1, Central State edged Fairmont State 63-60, Defiance bopped Tri-State 94-86 and Union of Kentucky beat Rio Grande 91-67.

Cincinnati upped its first place MVC record to 5-1 and its overall mark to 12-3.

Memphis tied the game 62-62 at the end of regulation on a free throw by Mike Stewart. It was nip-and-tuck in the overtime until Cincinnati took advantage of the two technicals and two Tiger floor mistakes.

John Howard led the Bearcats' scoring with 33 points.

Ohio State's hot shooting carried the Buckeyes to their ninth victory in 12 games. Paced by Dave Sorenson, Ohio State hit 56 per cent of its shots to Georgia Tech's 34.

Sorenson put the Bucks on top for good at the outset with a three-point play, and went on to lead all scorers with 21 points. Buckeye Bill Hosket became ill at halftime, but was able to play part of the second half and ended with 15 points.

Toledo used its height to drown the Coast Guard. The Rockets grabbed 63 rebounds to only 30 for the Academy. Steve Mix led all scorers with 24 points and grabbed 16 rebounds.

Eqli Eased Out
UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Penn State was hunting for a new basketball coach today after confirming a report that John Egli would be eased into an administrative post.

Michigan State's 1968 non-conference foes are Syracuse, Baylor and Notre Dame.

1968 Schedules Set for CHS Grid, Cage Teams

The schedules for the 1968 football season and the 1968-69 basketball season have been completed according to Circleville High School faculty director Don Poling.

The football schedule will see one new team. In the third game of the season, the Tigers will play Walnut Ridge, a spot reserved for Pleasant View in recent years.

However, Pleasant View's new league affiliation prevents it from playing the Tigers at that time. Previous non-league commitments of both schools made it impossible to schedule the Panthers, a formidable foe for Circleville.

There are five home games and five road games on the schedule. The 1968 football Tigers will open the season at Grove City, Sept. 6.

ON successive Friday nights through Nov. 8, the Red and Black gridgers play Teays Valley, Walnut Ridge, Hillsboro, Greenfield Miami Trace, Washington C. H., Wilmington, Frank- lin Heights and Reynoldsburg.

There is also one new team on the basketball schedule. On Jan. 18 1969, Circleville will host Columbus Whetstone. The 1968-69 schedule begins Nov. 23, 1968 with the cagers hosting Chillicothe and ends on the road Feb. 14, 1969 at Miami Trace.

The complete schedule is:

Nov. 23, Chillicothe; Nov. 29, Westfall; Dec. 6, at Greenfield; Dec. 7 at Grandview, Dec. 13, at Washington C. H.; Dec. 20, Hillsboro; Dec. 27 at Teays Valley; Jan. 3, at Wilmington; Jan. 4, Franklin Heights; Jan. 10, Miami Trace; Jan. 17, Greenfield; Jan. 18 Columbus Whetstone; Jan. 24, Washington C. H. Jan. 25 at Westfall; Jan. 31, at Hillsboro; Feb. 1, at Franklin Heights; Feb. 7, Wilmington; Feb. 14 at Miami Trace.

Track Stars To Boycott Olympics?

NEW YORK (AP) — A statement by some of America's top track stars that if any of them were declared ineligible for the Olympics all of them would stay out of the Games has drawn guarded comment from the Amateur Athletic Union.

A statement issued in Chicago Sunday, and subscribed to by such stars as Jim Ryun, Ralph Glenn, Pettisville, Portsmouth Notre Dame and Carrollton St. Edward 5; Lorain St. Mary, Southeastern (Clark) and River 4; Jefferson (Adams) and Germantown 3; Zane Trace (Ross), Federal Hocking and Springfield Local 2; Newton 1.

The AAU has warned that any athletes competing in the U.S. Track and Field Federation meet in New York Feb. 4 would be ineligible for Olympic competition. The meet has no AAU sanction and the presence of some non-collegians requires one, the AAU has said.

LE Freshmen Lose, 45-35

The Logan Elm freshman basketball team lost to visiting Southeastern, 45-35, Monday.

The final score was the widest margin of the game. At the end of the first period the teams were stalemated at 6-6.

By halftime the visitors had stretched their lead to three points, 18-15. The third quarter score was 27-22.

Logan Elm was outscored by 16 points at the foul line. The little Braves made only three of 10 chances while Southeastern cagers swished 19 charity tosses through the nets.

FROM the field, Logan Elm canned 16 goals and Southeastern made 13.

Game scoring honors went to Tim Speakman of Logan Elm Sinking 10 field goals and two foul shots, he had a total of 22 points. Johnny Stant had six for the losers.

Skaggs led the Southeastern team with 13 points. The next game for Logan Elm is Thursday when they meet Teays Valley on the Salt Creek Elementary School floor.

Checkers Slate 'Stick Day'

COLUMBUS, O. — Sunday is "stick day" when the Columbus Checkers ice hockey team host 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

The first 600 child-parent combination tickets will receive a professional type hockey stick. To receive the stick, each child's ticket must be accompanied by an adult who pays full price.

The Checkers with 43 points in the standings on 19 wins, 23 losses and five ties, are in fourth place in the International Hockey league, trailing third place Ft. Wayne by two points.

Dick Gagliardi is in his third season as Yale's hockey coach.

New Manager Named at Prairie Lanes

Joe Ebbrecht, 571 Maurer Road, has been named the new general manager of Prairie Lanes, officials of the bowling establishment announced.

Ebbrecht, 31, replaces Dave Olney, who resigned last week. The new manager is well known to Circleville bowlers. He was serving as assistant manager at the time of his promotion.

Married, he and his wife are the parents of an 8-month old daughter. He is a member of the Knights of Columbus and St. Joseph Church.

A graduate of St. Mary's High School in Lancaster, Ebbrecht was formerly associated with his father in the restaurant business.

Ebbrecht is planning to promote bowling in Circleville by providing new and better services to local bowlers.

Tart Sparks American Win

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Basketball Association owners peered into their crystal ball, saw a league with 18 teams and decided to go where the action isn't.

For that reason, most likely more than any other, they saw Milwaukee, Wis., and Phoenix, Ariz., in their future. These cities, both without a major league professional team in any sport, were selected as the 13th and 14th teams in the NABA Monday. They will start play next season.

Houston Cougars Lead College Poll

Expect Sell-Out For NBA All-Stars

NEW YORK (AP) — Expansion, a lost scoring leader and a fallen star have taken some of the twinkle from the West team and made the East a strong favorite tonight in the National Basketball Association All-Star game at Madison Square Garden.

An expected sellout crowd of 18,500 along with a nationwide television audience ABC, will watch the 18th annual classic in which the stars of the Eastern Division hold an 11-6 edge over those of the Western Division. Game time is 8:30 p.m., EST.

Start Buildings For Bengals

CINCINNATI (AP) — Construction of a practice field and dressing rooms for the Cincinnati Bengals began Monday near downtown Cincinnati. Target date for completion is Sept. 1.

City officials Monday signaled for beginning construction at a site where the recreation commission now maintains three baseball diamonds. The new team of the America Football League will lease the facility from the city.

No Significant Change in Ratings

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Potent Columbus East, which hasn't lost a regular season game in two years, continues to hold down the No. 1 spot in the weekly Associated Press high school basketball ratings.

Coach Bob Hart's Tigers, rolling along at an 11-0 pace, piled up 202 points from the sports writers and broadcasters who vote in the poll.

That gave the leaders a commanding 64-point bulge over most 100 points from third place Toledo Central.

Toledo Central, 12-0, swapped places with Cleveland East, 11-0, in the only significant changes in the top ten.

Here's the way the teams are rated in The Associated Press poll of Ohio's high school basketball teams:

School	W	L	Pts.
1. Columbus East	11	0	202
2. Middletown	12	1	138
3. Toledo Central	12	0	106

Cincy Escapes From Memphis With Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Things got a bit technical for Cincinnati and Memphis State Monday night.

Five technical fouls were called as Cincinnati escaped from Memphis—and its faithful followers—with an overtime 71-68 Missouri Valley Conference basketball victory.

Two technicals against Memphis because of home court fan behavior aided the Cincinnati cause in the extra period. The technicals came in the closing seconds after fans tossed litter onto the court.

Another technical was called State Coach Moe Iba and two others were against Cincinnati players Rick Robertson and John Howard, all for protesting calls by the officials.

It was a bit quieter in Columbus, where the Ohio State Buckeyes easily defeated Georgia Tech 66-55. In other Ohio Games, Toledo trounced the Coast Guard Academy 83-55, Cleveland State downed Muskingum 6-1. Central State edged Fairmont State 63-60, Defiance bopped Tri-State 94-86 and Union of Kentucky beat Rio Grande 91-67.

Cincinnati upped its first-place MVC record to 5-1 and its overall mark to 12-3.

Memphis tied the game 62-62 at the end of regulation on a free throw by Mike Stewart. It was nip-and-tuck in the overtime until Cincinnati took advantage of the two technicals and two Tiger floor mistakes.

John Howard led the Bearcats' scoring with 33 points.

Ohio State's hot shooting carried the Buckeyes to their ninth victory in 12 games. Paced by Dave Soderstrom, Ohio State hit 56 per cent of its shots to Georgia Tech's 34.

Soderstrom put the Bucks on top for good at the outset with a three-point play, and went on to lead all scorers with 21 points. Buckeye Bill Hosket became ill at halftime, but was able to play part of the second half and ended with 15 points.

Toledo used its height to drown the Coast Guard. The Rockets grabbed 63 rebounds to only 30 for the Academy. Steve Mix led all scorers with 24 points and grabbed 16 rebounds.

THEY'LL SKATE FOR UNCLE SAM—Members of the 1968 Ladies Olympic skating team, selected by the U.S. Olympic committee at West Allis, Wis., include (from left) Bobby Croft, a 6-foot-10 Tennessee sophomore from Hamilton, Ont.,

Northbrook, Ill., Toy Dorgan of Springfield, Ill., Jenny Fish of Cleveland, Dianne Holm of Northbrook, Ill., Mary Meyers of St. Paul and Jeanne Omelenchuk of Detroit. The team goes to Helsinki, Finland, for world meet Jan. 27.

Tennessee Dumps Rupp And Company 87-59

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Bobby Croft, one of Canada's biggest southern exports, has stirred up an international crisis—for Kentucky and Baron Adolph Rupp.

It was the biggest margin of defeat for a Kentucky team since 1950, when City College of

New York humbled the Wildcats 89-50 in the National Invitation Tournament.

Tennessee's 32nd consecutive home court victory set the Vols into a first-place tie with idle Louisiana State in the Southeastern Conference race. Tennessee is 11-2 on the season and 5-1 in the SEC.

Kentucky, 10-4 over all, fell into a fourth place tie with Vanderbilt, at 4-3, as Rupp failed for the second time in a row to match the all-time victory mark of 771 held by Kansas' Phog Allen.

Another SEC giant, 6-10 soph Neal Walk of Florida, wrecked Georgia with 33 points and 25 rebounds in a 90-63 Gator romp at Gainesville, Fla. The victory gave Florida a 7-3 conference record and a 10-6 season mark. Mississippi State upended visiting Alabama 72-69 in another SEC struggle.

Eight of The Associated Press' Top Ten teams had the night off, but three Ohio powers boosted their national stock. Cincinnati, 12-3, trimmed Missouri Valley Conference rival Memphis State 75-68 in overtime on the losers' court. Toledo, 10-3, crushed Coast Guard 88-47 at home and Ohio State, 9-3, outscored Georgia Tech 66-55 at Columbus, Ohio.

Visiting North Carolina State whipped Jacksonville 69-52 while Chicago Loyola and Michigan breezed to home-court victories, the Ramblers routing Windsor, Ont., 105-52 and the Wolverines belting Ball State 97-75.

U.S. Economy Clicks Off Big Advance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy—already enjoying almost seven consecutive years without a recession—is now clicking off the biggest dollar advance in its history, says the government's chief economist.

But Gardner Ackley, outgoing chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, added Monday he isn't overly happy about it.

In a preview of the council's economic report, scheduled for submission to Congress later this month, Ackley said the nation's Gross National Product this year should increase by a record $61 billion over 1967.

This would mean a GNP for 1968 as a whole of $846 billion or about 7.75 per cent above last year.

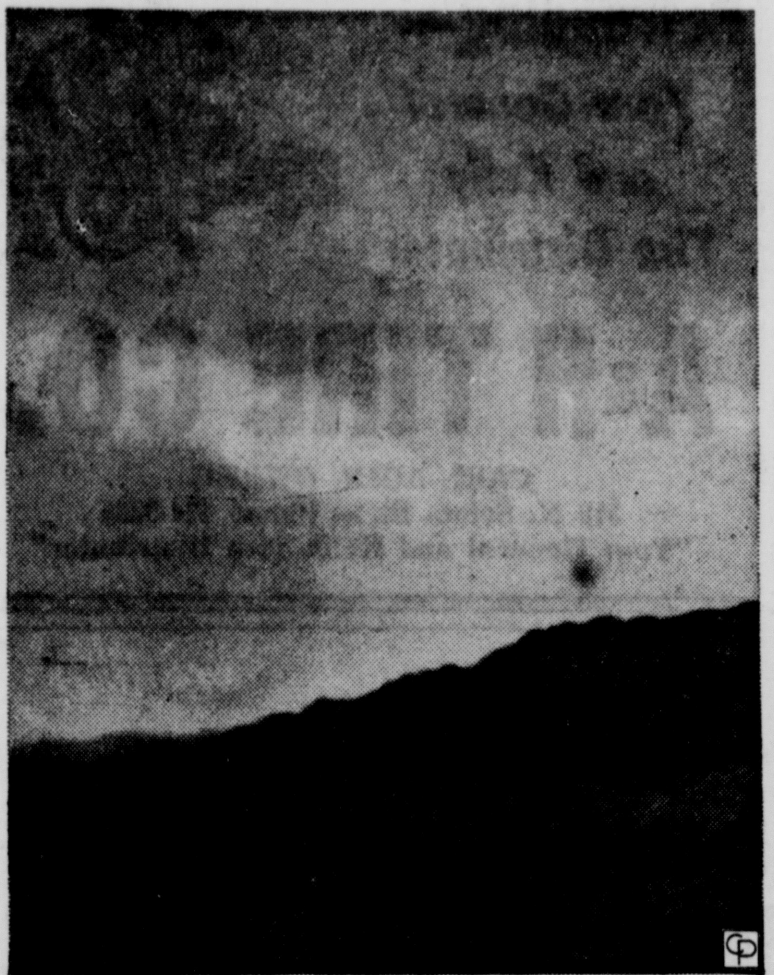

GNP is the value of all goods and services produced in the economy and is the broadest yardstick of economic activity.

But Ackley told the House Ways and Means Committee, Congress must raise taxes to get the nation moving toward better balance and stable prices.

Even with higher taxes, Ackley said, the economy will have trouble with prices this year.

He forecast continuation of the wage-price spiral which began in 1966, but said that with higher taxes the 4 per cent price rises of recent months can be lowered toward 3 per cent by year's end.

Flying Saucer Search Continues

By T. C. McCLARY
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Saucer shaped disc shaped, cigar shaped, wafer shaped — four feet in diameter or length, or filling the horizon — surrounded by or emanating red, blue, green, orange, violet or Aurora light effects — hovering, travelling at outer space speeds, hedgehopping over car tops, "turning" at right angles, braking out of or into full velocity instantly—

You name it and it has been reported as a Flying Saucer. But Project Blue Book, the Air Force department that investigates UFOs (Unidentified Flying Objects) has never been able to identify or trace anything reported as a manned or unmanned visitor from outer space, and Project Blue Book has certainly tried. After investigating more than 11,000 reported sightings, Blue Book would give its wings just to find evidence of one little Martians.

It's disheartening to keep chasing down a UFO that turns out to be a spot of acid spilled on a photo film; a "sun dog" which is similar phenomenon to a rainbow; a camera lens flare; a planet observed through unusual atmospheric conditions; a weather balloon; a satellite; a mirage; or in one case and that of a highly experienced and reliable pilot, an atmospheric reflection of his own plane. Nevertheless, Blue Book is holding 676 unsolved reports in its "Open" file.

All the rest have been pinned down as natural phenomenon, observed but not understood at the time, usually by reliable well intentioned people. Typical was the fringe of lights around a trailer truck reflected by light mist, or the aircraft warning lights atop a TV tower noted for the first time through wind blown foliage.

Grandma and longhorn cattle had something a little more tangible than most flying Saucers. During storms in grandma's day, an actual ball of electrical fire was likely to drop out of the old wall telephone and leisurely follow a draft to its extinction. Longhorns in a storm may sprout twitching blue "fireball" also.

Maj. George W. Ogles, now in Vietnam but formerly of USAF old he unbiased story of what Headquarters in Washington, told the unbiased story of what the Air Force has learned about UFOs in recent issues of The Airman magazine.

In a nutshell, the Air Force knows just about as much as you, although 19 years of investigation has turned up a good deal of data on atmospheric reflections and distortions; on various camera film behavior; and on the power of suggestion on the human mind combined with optical illusion.

Relatively few of the reports have been intentional hoaxes, Major Ogles says. And the Air Force no longer is lofty about such reports. Although the Air Force may smile at the apprehension of "intraspace mobility of extra territorial life," it is not smiling at technological advances that potential enemies might be making. And any UFO might turn out to be an electronic spy, a remote sensor, in these days of science fiction turned into reality.

Blue Book is in a peculiar state of mind — it does not really believe in little men from Outer Space, yet it must keep an open mind because of those 676 unexplained reports.

The anomaly may have been summed up best by Dr. Werner von Braun, director of the Marshall Space Flight Center, who can scarcely be considered hidebound in scientific opinion. Said Dr. von Braun, "I can only say that I cannot believe in their (Flying Saucers) existence without positive, credible proof."

That may dishearten dedicated UFO fans, but it gives them a real quest — bring in a piece of a real flying saucer or a photographic negative that will withstand laboratory tests. Gen. J.P. McConnell, Air Force chief of staff, adds, "Medals, frame and our gratitude await any citizen who brings us a flying saucer."

After 19 years Project Blue Book would be relieved if just that happened. Meantime, it continues its own quest to find a person who has actually seen a saucer fly.

Seek Copper Strike Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress members from the nation's copper-producing states urge President Johnson to use muscle-with some favoring the Taft-Hartley Act to end the 6½-month-old copper strike that has idled 60,000 workers.

Under Taft-Hartley, the President may seek a court injunction temporarily halting the strike for 80 days. If the court orders the cooling off period, a presidential fact-finding panel is ratd to study the dispute and offer recommendations for its solution.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, said in a speech prepared for Senate delivery today that the strike is as much a national emergency as past situations in which Taft-Hartley was invoked.

But Rep. Arnold Olsen, D-Mont., in whose district lie the nation's richest copper mines, said the Taft-Hartley Act "can't be invoked because there is no shortage of copper endangering the nation."

Urge Removal Of Paint Brand

CLEVELAND (AP)— Operation Breadbasket, organized last year to increase Negro employment in Cleveland, is conducting a campaign to get East Side merchants to remove Sherwin-Williams Co. paints from their store shelves.

The boycott, announced Monday, is aimed at E. Colin Baldwin, president of the company and board chairman at St. Luke's Hospital.

The campaign is headed by the Rev. E. Randal T. Osburn, who said Operation Breadbasket is trying to get Baldwin and other hospital trustees to recognize Local 47, Building, Service and Maintenance Union.

PLENTY OF STEAK HERE—Professional basketball's new scoring whiz, Dave Bing of the Detroit Pistons, who already has totaled 1,000 points this season, helps himself to a big steak in a Detroit restaurant kitchen as some added food for fought.

Bengals Acquire Andre White

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals of the American Football League have acquired tight end Andre White from the Denver Broncos for an undisclosed draft choice.

The 23-year-old White, a 6-foot-3, 225-pounder, played college ball for Florida A. & M. Last year in his first year with the Broncos, he caught five passes for 87 yards.

Urge Removal Of Paint Brand

CLEVELAND (AP)— Operation Breadbasket, organized last year to increase Negro employment in Cleveland, is conducting a campaign to get East Side merchants to remove Sherwin-Williams Co. paints from their store shelves.

The boycott, announced Monday, is aimed at E. Colin Baldwin, president of the company and board chairman at St. Luke's Hospital. The campaign is headed by the Rev. E. Randal T. Osburn, who said Operation Breadbasket is trying to get Baldwin and other hospital trustees to recognize Local 47, Building, Service and Maintenance Union.

Poverty War Big Business For Buckeyes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "Poverty is no crime," says a brightly painted red and yellow sign in an antipoverty office in Columbus.

But Ohio and its cities are attacking poverty as if it were man's worst enemy.

The War on Poverty has become a big and complicated operation in Ohio. There are no fewer than 240 antipoverty programs operating this year alone.

The money involved is in the hundreds of millions. It involves thousands of people.

The Ohio Office of Economic Opportunity began operations in 1965 and since then about $148.8 million has been or is being spent in Ohio.

This is in addition to another $28 million for Appalachia projects, and does not include $57 million allocated for the state's Appalachia highways.

Albert G. Giles, head of the Ohio OEO, says the aim of the poverty program is, simply, "to help people help themselves and to develop human resources."

There are 55,773 participants in the 240 OEO programs in Ohio this fiscal year, at a cost of $58 million. Another 330 programs are pending.

The OEO projects include the Neighborhood Youth Corps, Bureau of Works program, Community Action, Farmers Home Administration (rural loans), Small Business Loans, VISTA Volunteers and Work Experience, also known as Title V.

This becomes more complicated as the Community Action program contains 24 projects in rural and urban communities. Also, the Bureau of Works program involves four different activities.

2 Americans Are Killed

SAIGON (AP) — Two American civilians were killed by a Viet Cong road mine and a Korean civilian working for the same firm was critically wounded in a separate terrorist attack.

The Americans were Arnold A. Isaacson, 34, of Renton, Wash., and Howard W. Andree, 47, of Sacramento, Calif. U.S. spokesmen said they worked for Pacific Architects and Engineers Inc.

Spokesmen said the two were killed Monday when a pickup truck in which they were driving struck a mine on a road between My Tho and Dong Tam, in the Mekong Delta.

The Korean, Khun Sik Song, lost his left leg and suffered head and internal injuries when a grenade booby trap exploded this morning at the entrance to his apartment in Da Nang. The grenade was rigged to go off when Song opened his door as he left for work.

Port Authority Approved

CLEVELAND (AP)—Legislature creating a countywide port authority board has been approved by Cleveland City Council.

Now it will be up to the voters to approve measures putting the port authority into operation.

Passage of the port bill by council Monday night was the first major legislative achievement of the administration by Mayor Carl B. Stokes.

HEW Cuts Spending $550 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare, cutting its spending by $550 million in the first half of this year on orders from Congress, will take the biggest slice from college and university building aid.

But most of the higher education construction funds will simply be held up until the end of the current fiscal year July 1 unless Congress orders a continued financial holddown.

"A lot of people's plans are being upset," said an HEW budget official of college and university officers, "and they're already letting us know about it."

Officials said most institutions probably will get next fiscal year the money they were expecting this year. But they noted that the possibility state agencies disbursing the funds could give the money to new applicants.

The $450 million that was to have been spent on college and university buildings this year will be cut about one-third, to $300 million, officials said.

Platoon Cut Down by Murderous Viet Rebel Fire

By GEORGE McARTHUR
Associated Press Writer

WAR ZONE C, Vietnam (AP) — American infantry units in combat are seldom up to strength and 2nd Lt. Hector Colon, a confident man with a jungle-grown red mustache, was not overly disturbed that his platoon roll was down to 32 men.

The rest of Bravo Company, after all, was with them. The day was almost over and it had gone well.

The Vietnamese war, however, has its own unpredictable ways. Colon's little band had to stand alone when the blow fell. When helicopters finally plucked him from the jungle, Colon came out with 9 men standing, 7 dead and 16 wounded.

At 27, Colon is old for a second lieutenant. He came late to the Army when his college grades began to fall and the draft drew close. Now, he is looking forward to returning to Chicago, going back to college and picking up his job as a program director for youth groups at the Joseph Duncan YMCA.

He is also confidently looking forward to marrying his Chicago sweetheart on a rest leave in Hawaii next month.

These things, however, were blocked from his mind this hot and dusty afternoon in the jungles of War Zone C, hard by Cambodia.

The sweating company had been on a patrol that had gone not too badly. A helicopter had been shot down and a crewman died. Getting the rest of the crew out of the jungle had been troublesome. There had been fighting but the enemy had faded away. Choppers came in to pick up the company.

They had lifted out all but Colon's platoon when it all began. The last four choppers were hovering when the Red mortars began to explode. The pilots pulled back their sticks and lifted away.

"Charlie (the Viet Cong) had been waiting," recalled Colon. "He knew there couldn't be many of us left on the ground and he thought he could take us."

With shells blasting the clearing and machine guns ripping the overhanging branches, Colon and his men dove into the treeline 20 yards away, hugging the slight depressions of the jungle floor.

The casualties started quickly, worst for the seven green men who had never before been in a firefight. Four of them died and three were wounded. When the platoon medic was killed, he fell over the bleeding body of the man he was bandaging.

Each survivor remembers it piecemeal. They recall the lieutenant's coolness and the old soldier bravery of platoon Sgt. Richard Devore, the father of three kids back in Charlestown, Ind., who took over a machine gun and died there. They recall Pvt. Sidney Smith of Peoria, Ill., who snaked out to set up a claymore mine, silencing a Viet Cong machine gun. He was later wounded.

The Vietnamese interpreter, Lt. Binh, somehow missed the earlier choppers and wound up fighting with the platoon. He was wounded and the Viet Cong tried to drag him away but Binh killed one with a hunting knife and made it back to the perimeter.

Sgt. Johnnie English of San Antonio, Texas, at 27 the platoon's other old-man, coolly called in jets and artillery, closer and closer.

That was the worm's eye view. Overhead in a helicopter was Lt. Col. John Henchman, a 39-year-old regular officer from Bremerton, Wash. He called Colon's battle a classic and put every man in for a decoration, the silver star for Colon.

Henchman, from his radio contacts with the ground, was putting jets and napalm within 35 yards of the platoon.

artillery even closer. "Lt. Colon kept yelling to bring it in closer and I kept bringing it in closer," Henchman said.

Afterwards, partly in wonderment Colon said: "We didn't get a single casualty from our own stuff. It was great."

Train Stopped By Regulations

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Cecil E. Blunck of Des Moines, the engineer, and Paul T. Walsh of Kansas City, conductor, says they had to stop a 156-car freight train that blocked three crossings for 1½ hours because the crew ran out of time. They said they had to stop the Chicago and Great North Western train because Interstate Commerce Commission rules won't let them work more than 16 hours in a 24-hour period. After the train was brought to a halt in nearby Wolcott, another crew was sent out from Kansas City to bring in the train.

St. Louis Symphony Enjoys New Home, Far from Met

By LOWELL MCKIRGAN
Associated Press Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Symphony Orchestra will no longer have to compete with rock 'n' roll musicians in the battles of the bands.

The symphony has a new home, a glittering palace complete with crystal chandeliers and a very proper bar salvaged from the New York Metropolitan Opera building which is now just a memory.

"It's a dream, it's just a dream," said Walter Susskind, new conductor for the orchestra. The dream becomes reality Wednesday night when the symphony presents its first concert in Powell Hall, named for Walter S. Powell whose widow provided a generous endowment for the project.

The inaugural concert at 2,689-seat Powell Symphony Hall will feature the world premiere of Gunther Schuller's "Fanfare for St. Louis," commissioned by the orchestra.

The orchestra's new home was built more than 40 years ago as a movie theater to end them all with a 70-foot domed ceiling in the auditorium, Italian marble floors, carved and gilded moldings. But its history wasn't as happy as its promise—until now.

The St. Louis Symphony Orchestra Society purchased the theater two years ago for about $400,000. Renovation has cost about $2 million.

The orchestra first appeared in the theater in 1964 following remodeling work designed to regain the leadership in offering first-run movies in St. Louis. The orchestra found the acoustics to be first rate.

Plaster, paint and gold leaf are not the only ingredients in the transformation of the theater. Major alterations included installation of an acoustical shell above the stage. Construction of the shell provided room for three floors of offices in the space above the shell.

The advantages of moving into the old building include the excellent acoustics and the relatively small cost involved. Symphony officials say the concept has attracted much attention throughout the United States. It seems there are a number of elegant old movie theaters, now abandoned.

The loud-beat musicians still reign supreme at Kiel Auditorium and Opera House in downtown St. Louis.

For several years, weekend symphony programs in the opera house section of the building have been literally back-to-back with rock 'n' roll and other big beat bands in the auditorium area.

Separating the two musical groups was a thick iron curtain. It stopped everything but the big beat of the rock bands.

Soviet Television Sets Are Lemons

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet television sets have a staggeringly high repair rate. And repairmen are hard to find.

"I bought it, I turned it on, and it didn't work." This was the frequent fate of the buyer as described by Moskovsky Komсомоlets, the newspaper of the Moscow Young Communist League.

Factories that make the sets blame faulty parts received from their suppliers. But the newspaper held the factories are equally to blame because of rushed, sloppy work.

The Soviet Union has about 25 million television sets. Production sharply increased recently and is now running about 5 million sets a year. Prices average 300 rubles—$333.

Figures cited by the paper showed 55 per cent of the Sputnik brand sets stopped working soon after they were taken home.

The second worst offender was the Volkov set, at 50 per cent. Other brands, according to these statistics, also are trouble-proven.

Appliance dealers said customers try to guard against trouble by looking for the date of manufacture given in each set. They snap up those turned out early in the month, when work is being done normally, and avoid those from the last days, when workers rush to meet the output figure called for by the production plan.

Getting a defective set replaced is impossible, the paper said.

A.K. Khryvimov, head of a repair shop, was quoted as saying he had 32 repairmen to handle 82,000 sets in his district. He said that, since a repairman can make only seven or eight calls a day, set owners have to suffer long waits.

Th paper condemned the television set manufacturers for putting out defective products. It said: "This rotten hope of businessmen that anything will sell if there is a big demand should be done away with."
